Automobile Sales Solid Despite Drop

DETROIT (AP) — Auto sales for mid-August slid 6.2 per cent from the same period in 1974, but industry analysts say the deliveries represent "a good, solid period."

The mid-month sales, despite the decline from last year's comparable period, were more than 30 per cent above figures for the month's opening 10-day period.

Although more cars were sold in the latest period than in the 1974 span — 201,177 compared with 190,653 — the decline is based on the daily selling rate. In addition, there were nine selling days in the latest period, and only eight in mid-August 1974.

Analysts, noting a continued sales slide at Chrysler Corp. and a slight decline at General Motors Corp., said the upcoming end of the model year and forthcoming price increases in September — in the $250 average range — apparently have not sparked an August buying surge.

Only Ford Motor Co. reported an increase in deliveries, a one per cent climb which was credited to a dealer incentive program.

Nonetheless, analysts saw the mid-August sales figures as an indication that the long industry decline continues to approach an end, and GM Vice President Mack Worden predicted the introduction of 1976 models would add further momentum to car sales.

Chrysler sales in the Aug. 11-20 span fell 27 per cent compared with the same 1974 period, giving the No. 3 auto maker just 13.2 per cent of the domestic market, far below its 17 per cent share in the last mid-August span. GM slipped 2 per cent, while American Motors Corp. dropped a 21 per cent.

It was the worst sales performance for the period since 1971, but most periods this year have seen sales hit 12- and 14-year lows.

Year-to-date auto sales as of Aug. 20 were 4.16 million, down about 17 per cent from 1974, a slack year by recent standards.

Portuguese Politburo Ends Meet

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal's military politburo met in emergency session until early today but failed to resolve the crisis over pro-Communist Premier Vasco Gonçalves.

In continuing anti-Communist violence in the north of the country, at least one man was killed and three were wounded when a mob attacked the Communist party headquarters in the town of Leiria.

The emergency meeting of the 28-man Revolutionary Council followed reports that President Francisco da Costa Gomes had decided to go along with demands that he replace Gonçalves and his government with a group of pro-Western leaders.

The meeting was attended by nine moderate officers, led by former foreign minister Ernesto Melo Antunes, who were suspended from the council two weeks ago after they launched a campaign against Gonçalves and demanded the premier's removal by the middle of this week.

Gonçalves canceled a scheduled speech to confront his opponents in the council, Portugal's policy-making body until its creation last month of a three-man junta made up of the president, the premier and internal security chief Otelo de Carvalho. All three are generals.

A statement issued after the council meeting made no reference to the premier. Instead it called for the closing of the pro-Communist army propaganda branch and the restoration to his command of a pro-Gonçalves military commander, declared that the branches of the armed forces must obey their chiefs of staff and said there would be another council meeting next week.

Defense Fuel Bill To Spurt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department's fuel bill will increase by $150 million to $160 million a year with decontrol of domestic petroleum prices, according to calculations of Pentagon experts.

This amount of money would pay for more than 360 new tanks, about 10 advanced F15 fighter planes or a modern destroyer.

Fuel costs have been a matter of deep concern to Pentagon budget managers since Arab oil producers sent prices spiraling after the 1973 Mideast war.

Although they avoid any criticism of President Ford's decision to block an extension of domestic petroleum price controls, Pentagon officials are anything but happy about the prospect of having to meet the added costs within a defense budget under attack in Congress.

The Defense Department is one of the nation's biggest fuel users. It requires more than 500,000 barrels of petroleum products daily to run thousands of planes, ships, trucks, tanks and other vehicles, and bases and buildings in the United States and abroad.

Even with a variety of conservation measures such as limitations on flying and ship steaming hours, the Pentagon's annual fuel bill has climbed since late 1973 from $1.4 billion to more than $3.4 billion in the budget now before Congress.

The higher charges anticipated after decontrol will pile on more costs.

In response to questions, Pentagon experts said between 60 per cent and 70 per cent of the Defense Department's petroleum requirements are obtained from domestic sources and thus will be affected by decontrol.

The administration estimates that domestic supplies eventually will rise an average of 3 cents a gallon if decontrol is accompanied by eliminating the $2-per-barrel tax on imported oil.

KSU Jurors Eye Rhodes Liability

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Jurors deliberating a fourth day toward a decision on civil damages claimed as a result of the 1970 Kent State University shootings turned their attention to possible liability of Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Late Monday the jury requested and got new instructions dealing with the legal questions around Rhodes' involvement in the May 4 flareup during which four students were killed and nine wounded when Ohio National Guardsmen fired on an antiwar rally.

The brief court session centered on an error jurors spotted in the 80 pages of instructions given them by U.S. District Court Judge Don J. Young.

"We are confused as to the questions and answers..." jury foreman Stanley Davis Jr. of Akron told Young by note. "We would like this clarified."

And Young said, smiling, "I can see why they are confused." As the instructions were given, he added, "they are erroneous."

Ford plans to veto a bill this week extending price controls on most domestic oil. If Congress fails to override the veto, he will remove the $2-a-barrel import tax.

Commercial aviation industry sources contended the 3-cents-a-gallon estimate is too low. One source forecast the increase will be closer to 10 cents a gallon.

At that rate, the Pentagon would have to pay about an additional $500 million a year for its fuel.

In a reflection of the expected higher cost of aviation fuel, United Airlines asked Monday for federal authorization of a 4.2 per cent jet fuel surcharge on all passenger fares in the United States.

Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Monday that Ford had not decided whether to give a nationally broadcast speech to explain his veto.

There is a possibility that when Ford announces his veto he will announce an extension of price controls on propane for another six months, through the critical winter season. Ford told farmers in Peoria, Ill., last week that he was considering doing something to ease potential propane problems in the farm belt and aides hinted that propane controls might be extended.

Young had told jurors that Rhodes could be held liable to the shooting victims if the jurors answered yes to a series of questions, including that of whether Rhodes' decision to send guardsmen to Kent State "was a reasonable judgment made in good faith."

The instruction should have told the jurors Rhodes could not be held liable in that event, Young said. "All we were doing was asking the question," the judge said. "The jury has to answer it, and that's where the trouble came in."

He presented a substitute instruction and asked the jurors whether it ended the confusion. They nodded their heads and then returned to the locked jury room. The substitute also was approved by the lawyers, but defense attorney Charles Brown added, "Of course, we thought the first one was all right too."

The wounded and families of the dead seek $46 million in damages from Rhodes and 28 others. The current phase of the trial is to determine whether any defendant is liable financially. A vote of nine of the 12 jurors is sufficient to do so. If the answer is yes, a second phase will determine the amount due any plaintiff.

Most of those who brought the suit were in the courtroom Monday when the instruction was revised. For the defendants, only former Guard Adj. Gen. Sylvester Del Corso and then-Lt.

Col. Charles E. Fassinger were present.

One of the victims who had been on hand since the case went to the jurors Friday as well as through most of the trial since its May 19 start was Dean Kahler, who was paralyzed from the waist down by an M1 rifle bullet that spring Monday.

"I hope they deliberate in good conscience and do a good job of looking at the evidence," the Kent State student said. "If they do that, I don't think the verdict will be against us."

"I've waited five years to get here," Kahler added. "A few more days won't hurt. All I've wanted to hear was why I was shot at, why I have to spend the rest of my life in a wheelchair."

Mideast Pact Possible By Friday

JERUSALEM (AP) — With Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger reporting steady progress in the Israeli-Egyptian negotiations, diplomatic sources say an agreement may be wrapped up as early as Friday.

The diplomats reported only one principal issue still unsettled — the number of surveillance stations to be set up in the vicinity of the Gidi and Mitla mountain passes, which Israel will relinquish.

Kissinger flew to Alexandria Monday for a meeting with President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, returned to Jerusalem for a 3½-hour meeting Monday night with Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and his negotiating team, and after more talks with the Israelis today was returning to Alexandria this afternoon.

"So far we have not run into any unexpected difficulties or into any one difficulty that presents a deadlock, so matters are still progressing," Kissinger told newsmen.

He reported that drafts of the proposed agreement are now being exchanged.

Back in the United States, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said he would oppose a key provision of the proposed accord: the use of American civilians to help man at least four electronic surveillance posts around the two mountain passes.

The Montana Democrat recalled the stationing of American advisers in South Vietnam that began the American involvement in that war and commented: "One Vietnam is one Vietnam too many."

President Ford, speaking earlier Monday in Milwaukee, Wis., said he had not decided yet whether U.S. civilians should be sent to Sinai. But he said they would not be sent unless Congress approved.

The Israelis said agreement had been reached on the distance Egyptian forces will advance after Israel withdraws. Diplomatic sources said they would advance about two miles along the Gulf of Suez, in the south, while in the rest of the territory they would move forward five to 10 miles to take over the present United Nations buffer zone.

The sources said the new U.N. buffer zone to be set up between the two armies would be as much as 30 miles wide in some places and would include the Gidi and Mitla passes.

Originally, Israel opposed any Egyptian advance. Its concession on this point was the price for maintaining an Israeli-American electronic warning post on the Egyptian side of the Gidi Pass. The post, at Umm Khashiba, will watch Egyptian airfields as far away as Cairo as well as ground movements.

A similar Egyptian-American station is planned for the Israeli side of the pass, with at least two other posts manned by Americans and a number of unmanned "sensor" listening posts.

Nation's Postal Workers Seek Right To Legal Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's postal workers, having ratified a labor agreement obtained under threat of an illegal strike, now are pushing for legislation to make legal a nationwide mail strike.

The largest of four postal unions, the American Postal Workers Union, announced Monday that its members had ratified a new three-year contract with the U.S. Postal Service.

This action, together with the earlier ratification by the National Association of Letter Carriers, virtually rules out the possibility of a strike by the nation's 600,000 postal workers now.

"Now, we are going to turn our attention to trying to get the legal authority to strike," said President James H. Rademacher of the letter carriers' union.

Rademacher said the recent negotiations with the Postal Service were "demeaning and insulting" because the unions had no right to strike. "That is something that postal management could and did flaunt across the bargaining table at us," he said.

Rademacher and other union leaders threatened to strike anyway if an agreement could not be reached. But an agreement was reached July 21 with the help of federal mediators in what the Ford administration called the most important labor negotiations of the year.

The postal workers won scheduled raises totaling $1,500 over three years plus continued cost-of-living increases. They also retained a clause prohibiting layoffs.

The bill to allow strikes by the 600,000 postal workers is expected to come before the House Post Office Committee next month. The legislation was approved by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., who sponsored the bill.

"In my opinion we don't yet have a majority on the full committee. We have some work to do," Rademacher said.

The bill would allow the unions to serve notice of their intention to strike after a 90-day waiting period during which mediation over differences could take place. Certain essential mail, including Social Security checks, would have to be handled even if there was a strike.

Weather

Partly cloudy with occasional showers and thunderstorms today and tonight, high, mid 80s. Clear and cool tonight, low, mid 60s. Mostly sunny Wednesday, high, mid 80s. Probability of precipitation, 50 per cent today, 30 per cent tonight and 10 per cent tomorrow. Temperatures Monday were: high, 89; low, 70.

Severe Weather Brings Twisters In Central Plains

By The Associated Press
Major portions of the nation today were drenched by thunderstorms that dumped up to five inches of rainfall overnight, and severe weather conditions produced tornadoes in Kansas and Arkansas.

A nearly stationary frontal system triggered thunderstorms and heavy precipitation in the Central Plains. Rainfall at Liberty, Mo., on the northern edge of Kansas City totaled 5.15 inches. Totals of three to four inches were common in parts of the Kansas City metropolitan area, and street flooding late Monday caused massive traffic jams.

Two youngsters were swept into storm sewers and carried nearly 400 feet before being dumped into creeks where they were rescued. They escaped with only minor cuts and bruises.

A tornado slammed into the tiny village of Wilmont in southeastern Kansas, about eight miles northeast of Winfield. Four homes were destroyed and two others damaged. There were no injuries.

Another tornado was spotted near Little Rock, Ark. Golfballsize hail and high winds damaged parts of Newkirk, Okla., and hail an inch in diameter battered areas northeast of Jefferson City, Mo.

Other scattered thundershowers extended through the lower Great Lakes into New England and in Texas. Some also covered the lower Mississippi Valley into Florida.

From the upper Great Lakes to the Pacific Coast and from central New Mexico to California, there was dry summer weather.

Cooler air moving into northeastern Kansas dropped temperatures into the 50s for the first time in three weeks. To the north, 40s reached from Minnesota into the northern Rockies.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami reported a tropical depression continued to weaken today as it passed over the mountainous terrain of Eastern Cuba. The disorganized center of the depression was moving westward across the island at about 15 miles per hour and was expected to reach the Northwest Caribbean today. Highest sustained winds were about 25 mph.

In Lafayette, La., lightning bolts in quick succession Monday killed a 22-year-old hitchhiker and knocked to the ground a state trooper who came to help him, state police said. The dead youth was identified as Kenneth Roy Swanson of New Orleans.

Early morning temperatures around the nation today ranged from 92 at Needles, Calif., to 42 at Lewistown, Mont.

Ford And Meany Talk Over Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, back in the White House after a two-week Colorado vacation, is meeting with AFL-CIO President George Meany in an attempt to resolve the longshoremen's boycott of grain shipments to Russia.

Secretary of Labor John T. Dunlop also was scheduled to attend today's meeting that was announced as Ford flew back to Washington Monday night from Milwaukee where he spoke at a conference on domestic affairs and met with news media representatives.

At issue is the maritime unions' refusal to load U.S. grain on ships headed for the Soviet Union until the Ford administration takes steps to provide more work for American seamen and guarantees that consumers are protected from higher prices.

However, grain loading at gulf ports has continued with only brief interruption after a U.S. district judge in Texas issued a restraining order requiring longshoremen to load Soviet-bound grain. Hearings in that case were continuing today before U.S. District Judge Owen Cox in Corpus Christi, Tex.

Ford asked for the meeting with Meany while at his vacation retreat in Vail, Colo., last week. At about the same time, the President told a group of wheat growers that the dispute can be resolved if all sides "just cool it" and that he favors the sale of as much grain as possible overseas because it helps America's balance of payments.

Ford said one of the factors in the dispute is that the maritime unions are unhappy that American shipping is not getting more of the transit business generated by the grain sales.

Negotiations now are underway between the Commerce Department and Russian officials on a new freight rate agreement that could lead to more business by U.S. ships in carrying the grain to Soviet ports. The U.S. officials are seeking higher freight rates to make it economically attractive for U.S. companies to bid for the shipping contracts.

The American Farm Federation charged on Monday that the International Longshoremen's Association was engaged in an illegal secondary boycott by refusing to load grain bound for Russia. The accusation was made before the National Labor Relations Board.

Meanwhile, Ford is expected to announce before the weekend that he is vetoing legislation extending oil price controls for another six months. The controls expire Sunday.

The President also is planning a one-day political trip Saturday to Maine and Rhode Island.

CAUSE UNKNOWN—The cause of a $17,000 barn fire has not been determined according to Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Fite. The barn, located on Route 23 north and owned by H.O. Caldwell, was sighted on fire by a neighbor around 2:45 p.m. Monday. Harrison Twp. Fire Authorities assisted by the Hamilton Twp. Fire Department leveled the barn so it would burn itself out.

Ford asked for the meeting with Meany while at his vacation retreat in Vail, Colo., last week. At about the same time, the President told a group of wheat growers that the dispute can be resolved if all sides "just cool it" and that he favors the sale of as much grain as possible overseas because it helps America's balance of payments.

Ford said one of the factors in the dispute is that the maritime unions are unhappy that American shipping is not getting more of the transit business generated by the grain sales.

Negotiations now are underway between the Commerce Department and Russian officials on a new freight rate agreement that could lead to more business by U.S. ships in carrying the grain to Soviet ports. The U.S. officials are seeking higher freight rates to make it economically attractive for U.S. companies to bid for the shipping contracts.

The American Farm Federation charged on Monday that the International Longshoremen's Association was engaged in an illegal secondary boycott by refusing to load grain bound for Russia. The accusation was made before the National Labor Relations Board.

Meanwhile, Ford is expected to announce before the weekend that he is vetoing legislation extending oil price controls for another six months. The controls expire Sunday.

The President also is planning a one-day political trip Saturday to Maine and Rhode Island.

CAUSE UNKNOWN—The cause of a $17,000 barn fire has not been determined according to Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Fite. The barn, located on Route 23 north and owned by H.O. Caldwell, was sighted on fire by a neighbor around 2:45 p.m. Monday. Harrison Twp. Fire Authorities assisted by the Hamilton Twp. Fire Department leveled the barn so it would burn itself out.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, faced with renewed uneasiness over rising interest rates, dropped back in slow trading today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 7.19 at 805.15, and losers held a 4-3 advantage over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said the market's concern over the interest rate outlook was underscored by the rise of Treasury bill yields to an eight-month high Monday at the latest government bill auction. Returns on 13-week bills reached 6.59 per cent.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost .20 to 84.17.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was down .36 at 44.91.

Westfall Schools Open With Full Day Sept. 2

The Westfall Board of Education announced Monday that Sept. 2, the first day of school, will be a full day for district students and that lunch will be available at the schools.

The schedule for the 1975-76 school year will remain the same as last year. The high school will begin at 7 a.m. and dismiss at 1 p.m. Hours for the elementary schools are 8:20 a.m. until 2:20 p.m. The Junior high begins at 10:45 a.m. and dismisses at 4:30 p.m.

There will be two Kindergarten sessions at Darby and two at Jackson. The morning session is from 8:20 to 10:50 a.m. and the afternoon session from 11:50 a.m. until 2:20 p.m.

The board voted to increase the prices of school lunches by five cents. Grades one through six will pay 45 cents, grades seven through 12, 50 cents and adults 65 cents.

Extra milk will be five cents and extra sandwiches 30 cents.

Approval was given to continuing bus routing as it was last year. An additional route has been approved for the students at Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School.

Resignations were accepted from Patricia Rebell, fourth grade at Monroe; Judith Predmore, intensive instruction class at Jackson; William Swaney, bus driver.

The board employed Robin Donohoe, high school social studies and cross country coach; John Butts, junior high physical education, science, junior high football and basketball; Patricia Anderson, fourth grade at Monroe; Patricia Beathard, supplemental contract for advisor to majorettes and flag bearers; Anna Adams, parttime cook at Darby; Linda Reid, bus driver; Sue Faber, bus driver; Dorothy Justice, custodian at Jackson.

Substitute cooks approved were Emma Sias, Carolyn Finch, Anna Adams, Betty Howell, Loretta Keller. Substitute drivers approved for the coming year are Tom Greer, Jim Kibbey, Lowell Anderson, Jim Parrett, Daisy Rowland and all regular drivers.

Substitute custodians approved are Oscar Atwood and Norval Shepard. Substitute secretaries are Nancy Snyder, Sally Johnson, Joyce Kern and Verna Mowery.

Approval was given for granting a high school diploma to a student who recently completed requirements. The board approved the paying of tuition and transportation for four students to special schools in the Columbus City System.

The school bus insurance contract this year was approved with Personal Service Co. Lewis E. Cook is the local agent.

A request from Richard O'Dell of Mt. Sterling to pay tuition for his two children until the family moves into the district was approved. The O'Dell family is to provide transportation.

The board continued student fees the same as a year ago: art, $5; biology, $3; industrial arts, $5; home economics nine and 10, $3; home economics 11 and 12, $4; vocational agriculture, $5; Kindergarten, $7. In addition to the fees, workbook costs will be charged the students.

A review of the budget hearing held Aug. 12 was given to the board by Superintendent Gordon Massie. He noted that through re-evaluation there was an increase in the total evaluation of the district and that millage rates will be adjusted accordingly.

Massie also gave a report on the projected income from Senate Bill 170 and noted that Westfall will receive less money from the school foundation program this year than last year.

The board of education passed a resolution for membership in the Metropolitan Educational council. Various benefits available through membership include a savings in purchasing all types of educational and audio visual equipment and supplies, electrical, cafeteria and science supplies.

The board continued its meeting to 8 p.m. Sept. 3 at which time it will study bids for the loose equipment for the new middle school.

Board members present at the meeting were Jeanne Lett, Cooke Metzger, David Long, James Dean and Bruce Stevenson Jr.

Youth Cited In Accident

A 16-year-old Ashville boy was cited by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Dixon for driving without a driver's permit when he was involved in a single-car accident, 3:45 p.m. Monday.

Patrick N. Mercer, 16, Route 2, Ashville, was traveling east on the South Bloomfield-Royalton road when he failed to negotiate a curve.

Losing control of the vehicle, Mercer drove off the right side of the roadway and traveled through a fence. The auto rolled onto its side where it came to rest.

No injuries were reported.

Deputy J. Phillip Brown cited Ernest R. Copley, 28, Lockbourne, for reckless operation, when he was involved in a single-car accident on Ashville Pike, 10:10 p.m. Monday.

Copley was northbound on the Ashville Pike at the Planeview Trailer Court when he traveled off the right berm of the road.

The auto veered back across the roadway and nose dived into a ditch. He was treated and released at Berger Hospital for lacerations and abrasion.

Westfall Schools Open With Full Day Sept. 2

The Westfall Board of Education announced Monday that Sept. 2, the first day of school, will be a full day for district students and that lunch will be available at the schools.

The schedule for the 1975-76 school year will remain the same as last year. The high school will begin at 7 a.m. and dismiss at 1 p.m. Hours for the elementary schools are 8:20 a.m. until 2:20 p.m. The Junior high begins at 10:45 a.m. and dismisses at 4:30 p.m.

There will be two Kindergarten sessions at Darby and two at Jackson. The morning session is from 8:20 to 10:50 a.m. and the afternoon session from 11:50 a.m. until 2:20 p.m.

The board voted to increase the prices of school lunches by five cents. Grades one through six will pay 45 cents, grades seven through 12, 50 cents and adults 65 cents.

Extra milk will be five cents and extra sandwiches 30 cents.

Approval was given to continuing bus routing as it was last year. An additional route has been approved for the students at Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School.

Resignations were accepted from Patricia Rebell, fourth grade at Monroe; Judylyn Predmore, intensive instruction class at Jackson; William Swaney, bus driver.

The board employed Robin Donohoe, high school social studies and cross country coach; John Butts, junior high physical education, science, junior high football and basketball; Patricia Anderson, fourth grade at Monroe; Patricia Beathard, supplemental contract for advisor to majorettes and flag bearers; Anna Adams, parttime cook at Darby; Linda Reid, bus driver; Sue Faber, bus driver; Dorothy Justice, custodian at Jackson.

Substitute cooks approved were Emma Sias, Carolyn Finch, Anna Adams, Betty Howell, Loretta Keller. Substitute drivers approved for the coming year are Tom Greer, Jim Kibbey, Lowell Anderson, Jim Parrett, Daisy Rowland and all regular drivers.

Substitute custodians approved are Oscar Atwood and Norval Shepard. Substitute secretaries are Nancy Snyder, Sally Johnson, Joyce Kern and Verna Mowery.

Approval was given for granting a high school diploma to a student who recently completed requirements. The board approved the paying of tuition and transportation for four students to special schools in the Columbus City System.

The school bus insurance contract this year was approved with Personal Service Co. Lewis E. Cook is the local agent.

A request from Richard O'Dell of Mt. Sterling to pay tuition for his two children until the family moves into the district was approved. The O'Dell family is to provide transportation.

The board continued student fees the same as a year ago: art, $5; biology, $3; industrial arts, $5; home economics nine and 10, $3; home economics 11 and 12, $4; vocational agriculture, $5; Kindergarten, $7. In addition to the fees, workbook costs will be charged the students.

A review of the budget hearing held Aug. 12 was given to the board by Superintendent Gordon Massie. He noted that through re-evaluation there was an increase in the total evaluation of the district and that millage rates will be adjusted accordingly.

Massie also gave a report on the projected income from Senate Bill 170 and noted that Westfall will receive less money from the school foundation program this year than last year.

The board of education passed a resolution for membership in the Metropolitan Educational council. Various benefits available through membership include a savings in purchasing all types of educational and audio visual equipment and supplies, electrical, cafeteria and science supplies.

The board continued its meeting to 8 p.m. Sept. 3 at which time it will study bids for the loose equipment for the new middle school.

Board members present at the meeting were Jeanne Lett, Cooke Metzger, David Long, James Dean and Bruce Stevenson Jr.

Youth Cited In Accident

A 16-year-old Ashville boy was cited by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Dixon for driving without a driver's permit when he was involved in a single-car accident, 3:45 p.m. Monday.

Patrick N. Mercer, 16, Route 2, Ashville, was traveling east on the South Bloomfield-Royalton road when he failed to negotiate a curve.

Losing control of the vehicle, Mercer drove off the right side of the roadway and traveled through a fence. The auto rolled onto its side where it came to rest.

No injuries were reported. Deputy J. Phillip Brown cited Ernest R. Copley, 28, Lockbourne, for reckless operation, when he was involved in a single-car accident on Ashville Pike, 10:10 p.m. Monday.

Copley was northbound on the Ashville Pike at the Planeview Trailer Court when he traveled off the right berm of the road.

The auto veered back across the roadway and nose dived into a ditch. He was treated and released at Berger Hospital for lacerations and abrasion.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Reader Confused By Difference

DEAR ABBY: What's the difference between a psychiatrist and a psychologist? They are both called "doctor". Can you tell me without using a lot of big words?

DEAR F.A.: I'll try. A psychiatrist is also a PHYSICIAN and as such, has a degree in medicine. A psychologist does not.

They both treat people with emotional and mental problems, however.

A psychiatrist (because of his medical credentials) is licensed to prescribe drugs to his patients. A psychologist is not.

DEAR ABBY: Five years ago, our daughter-in-law (Nell) divorced our son saying she was going to marry a very rich man. Our son was all broken up because he and Nell had two little girls, ages 7 and 9.

After the divorce, the girls went to live with their mother, and our son took them for weekends and holidays, and maintained a wonderful relationship with them.

Now our son is marrying a fine young woman. She loves our granddaughters, and they love her. The girls (now 11 and 13) have been invited to the wedding, but Nell is raising a big fuss, saying they may not go because it is "improper."

Where was Nell's sense of propriety when she left our son for a married man (also with a family) who hasn't married her yet-and no doubt never will?

Please reply soon.

GRANNY
DEAR GRANNY: Her sense of propriety was apparently out to lunch. She is mistaken. There is nothing improper about the girls attending their father's wedding.

DEAR ABBY: Our problem is an unusual one. My husband's parents have recently adopted a boy of 10, and they have decided (with the boy's permission) to change the boy's name.

Michael Joseph is my father-in-law's name. My husband, now in his early 20's, was named "Michael Joseph" after his father.

Now listen to this: My father-in-law wants to name his newly adopted son "Michael Joseph" after himself. The excuse my father-in-law has for naming two sons after him is that my husband is called "Mike" (a natural nickname for Michael), but his new son, his father insists, will be called "Michael" or "Junior."

Are we being childish in objecting to another son in the family having the same name as my husband?

It will be terribly confusing because we all live in the same city.

PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: It would appear that your father-in-law is on an ego trip. You are not childish; your father-in-law is.

CONFIDENTIAL TO S. IN ATLANTA: Some people who come for the inheritance wind up paying for the funeral.

burial mound, located on private property at the Fort Ancient Village site, was ground up to make way for a saloon.

The director of the Cincinnati Museum of Natural History, which had been excavating at the site, said nothing could be done to save the mound, and, besides, it had already been pillaged by amateur archaeologists.

A representative of the Ohio Historical Society said similar incidents occurred across the state every day at sites that should be preserved. Nothing much could be done, he said.

In the hope that something can be done, the Ohio House Energy and Environment Committee has recommended a bill designed to save ancient burial sites from destruction by developers, pot hunters and vandals.

The legislation was approved after several weeks of hearings and testimony from archaeologists, property owners and Shawnee Indians seeking protection for their ancestral heritage.

As voted out of committee, the bill would establish a state registry of significant archaeological sites "to ensure that scientific knowledge about prehistoric cultures is made available to the public and not wilfully or unnecessarily destroyed or lost."

Desecration of Indian mounds, earthworks or settlement sites placed on the registry by consent of the landowner would be forbidden.

The Ohio Historical Society, charged with setting up the registry, also could authorize tax exemptions for property owners who agreed to dedicate valued land as an archaeological preserve.

The bill would outlaw sale or possession of artifacts or skeletal remains removed from designated sites.

It would specifically add Indian mounds and earthworks to language in existing law prohibiting desecration of cemeteries.

There are indications that publicity about the committee hearings has already raised the consciousness level of some people.

In Warren County last June, a developer of a residential housing complex just south of Kings Island, decided to work around two unexplored burial mounds to permit them to be properly marked and preserved.

There are some 1,200 mounds in Ohio, dating back as far as 1,000 B.C. with the Adena culture, the historical society said.

3,000 Deserters Ignore Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 3,000 deserters accepted for a clemency job program have not completed their assigned work but will escape punishment for not finishing it because they are no longer in the military.

Of the 4,503 deserters who joined the program, 2,035 have either dropped out or been kicked out, the Selective Service says. Another 1,000 men processed out by the military never reported for jobs at all, the Defense Department says.

And, since they were given discharges, they can escape punishment for desertion without completing the work they were assigned under the program.

NOTICE FOR SCHOOL BUS BID
Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of the Circleville City School District of Circleville, Ohio at the Clerk's Office at 520 South Court Street, Circleville, Ohio, until 12:00 Noon (Eastern Daylight Time) on Wednesday, September 19, 1975, and at that time opened by the Clerk of said Board as provided by law for two 66 passenger school buses according to specifications of said Board of Education. Separate and independent bids will be received with respect to the chassis and body type, and will state that the bus when assembled and prior to delivery, comply with all district specifications, all safety regulations and current Ohio Minimum Standards for school bus construction of the Department of Education adopted by and with the consent of the Director of Highway Safety pursuant to Section 4511.76 of the Revised Code and all other pertinent provisions by law. Specifications and instructions to bidders are on file in the office of the Clerk-Treasurer, 520 South Court Street, Circleville, Ohio.

Teays Valley Schools Begin Classes Sept. 2

Teays Valley high school will begin at 7 a.m. and dismiss at 12:15 p.m. The elementary schools, grades one through six, will open at 8:15 a.m. and dismiss at 2:15 p.m. The Jr. high school will begin at 12:20 p.m. and dismiss at 5:20 p.m.

This year kindergarten will be offered and parents can enroll their child in kindergarten by visiting the school and presenting the child's birth certificate and immunization record. Kindergarten students must have reached their fifth birthday on or before September 30, 1975.

The morning kindergarten in the three elementary schools will begin at 8:15 a.m. and dismiss at 10:45 a.m. The afternoon kindergarten session will begin at 11:45 a.m. and dismiss at 2:15 p.m.

Those parents interested in knowing the kindergarten session their child will attend can do so by contacting the building principal.

Lunch will be served on the first day, the price for elementary students will be 45 cents and extra milk will be five cents per carton.

Due to the limited space available at the high school, the lunch program for the high school and junior high students will be discontinued this year. Therefore, lunch will only be served at the three elementary schools.

All children entering first grade must be six years of age by September 30th. A birth certificate and a shot and immunization record must be presented in order to register. The immunization against polio, diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis, rubella (German Measles) and measles (Rubeola) are required.

Students who were enrolled in Teays Valley schools last year and will be transferring to a different school in the district should notify the former school and the new school either in person, by phone, or letter. The student's records will then be forwarded to the new school.

Students who will be transferring from other school districts can be enrolled by presenting last year's report card and birth certificate. Teays Valley Local School's personnel will request the student's records from former schools.

Parents who live in the Teays Valley School District may enroll their children in Teays Valley Schools immediately, as all school personnel are on duty in each of the schools and will help with the enrollment. School officials would appreciate parents enrolling their children as soon as possible to assist in preparation for the opening of school September 2.

Talks May Break Off

VICTORIA FALLS, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith threatened to break off the Rhodesian constitutional talks today unless black nationalist leaders agree to hold further talks inside Rhodesia.

"Let's wait and see whether we get the right answer tomorrow morning," Smith told newsmen when the first day's talks ended at midnight Monday.

"If we do, this game's on. If we don't, it will be a different game."

By a different game Smith apparently meant his oft-made threat to seek a political deal with moderate black Rhodesians who might settle for a promise of black majority rule in the future. Militant leaders of the ANC, which neutral political observers generally consider the group most representative of Rhodesia's black majority, are demanding black rule now.

Smith said factional differences within the ANC delegation were preventing agreement. But the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, a leader of the militant wing of the ANC, said Smith was being "stubborn." He said the conference might break down.

The conference to prevent an escalation of the black nationalists' guerrilla war in Rhodesia opened Monday on a South African railway car in the middle of the Victoria Falls Bridge across the Zambezi river, which is the border between Zambia and Rhodesia.

Talks May Break Off

VICTORIA FALLS, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith threatened to break off the Rhodesian constitutional talks today unless black nationalist leaders agree to hold further talks inside Rhodesia.

"Let's wait and see whether we get the right answer tomorrow morning," Smith told newsmen when the first day's talks ended at midnight Monday.

"If we do, this game's on. If we don't, it will be a different game."

By a different game Smith apparently meant his oft-made threat to seek a political deal with moderate black Rhodesians who might settle for a promise of black majority rule in the future. Militant leaders of the ANC, which neutral political observers generally consider the group most representative of Rhodesia's black majority, are demanding black rule now.

Smith said factional differences within the ANC delegation were preventing agreement. But the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, a leader of the militant wing of the ANC, said Smith was being "stubborn." He said the conference might break down.

The conference to prevent an escalation of the black nationalists' guerrilla war in Rhodesia opened Monday on a South African railway car in the middle of the Victoria Falls Bridge across the Zambezi river, which is the border between Zambia and Rhodesia.

A Page Of Opinion

Clearing Away Resource Cobwebs

Rawleigh Warner Jr., chairman of the Mobil Oil complex, has urged a slow decontrolling of oil prices, to prevent shock of higher prices taxes, saying the money might be needed as a cushion in the future.

President Gerald Ford has urged a tax incentive program to industry and business, to rebuild a strong economy.

Both stands are dependent on the same factor—America's natural resources. Warner is concerned primarily with energy resources, such as oil, natural gas and coal. However, on a wider basis, all of America's resources will be needed to provide for a better future.

In this regard, a comprehensive program is needed to develop those resources for balanced use in the future.

One of the most interesting proposals to surface in recent years has been "Operation Punchboard."

Dr. John Ridge, who is head of the Department of Mineral Economics at Penn State University is spearhead of the proposal.

Dr. Ridge has proposed that the entire nation become a resources grid, with squares of 20 miles on each side. In each of these 7,500-plus squares, holes three miles deep would be drilled.

Such a web of holes would give a complete map of the nation's below-ground resources, including fossil fuels and other minerals and ores.

Cost of the project has been estimated at several billion dollars. Return on the investment could be several hundred times that amount.

Such a massive program would require some type of federal participation, but would doubtless be worth it.

We hope Dr. Ridge's plan will not die aborning. It deserves serious consideration.

Hoffa Is Through

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — "He's through," Toots Shor said of his missing friend, Jimmy Hoffa.

"Through?" a puzzled reporter asked. "Through in the Teamsters?"

"No, stupid," Toots explained. "He's through. They killed him."

"Why do you say that, when even the FBI says it doesn't know?"

"Because you'd be hearing something from Jim by now," Toots said. "He was just too tough, too smart, to let anything like this go on so long. Somebody wanted to keep him from coming back to where he had been before Bobby Kennedy put him away. Somebody—only a couple guys, maybe—didn't want him back. So they had him grabbed and buried him somewhere."

Shor once borrowed $5,000,000 from Hoffa's Teamsters Union pension fund to build a restaurant and garage in midtown Manhattan, paid it all back... and then some of his own, before he came up losers. All that Hoffa did was nod when Toots made his application. Hoffa had that much clout. Jimmy did the same for many other applicants ordinary bankers might shy away from with a shrill whinny. But he always enriched the fund.

Shor has known many tough guys since he came to New York 45 years ago from Philadelphia, where he had also known a few and more importantly, had learned how to handle them. He maintains a certain admiration for some of them he met along the way, but not for today's hoods.

"There were some real creeps among some of the old tough guys, sure, especially during Prohibition," Toots was musing at Rose's Restaurant the other day, where he is warming up for his new place opposite Madison Square Garden. "But they wouldn't kill a guy they kidnapped. They'd get hard up, let's say, so they'd grab a guy like Big Frenchie, hold him a couple of days, get the 40 or 50 grand they needed, and send him back home. Nobody got sore until they began to kill people. Like Charlie Sherman. They killed him and then put him in cement, out they did such a lousy job that one of his feet stuck out of the cement. Some farmer saw it sticking out on his farm, called the cops, and the guys were caught."

"What Lindbergh should've done was stand up in court and shoot Hauptmann dead, and everybody would have approved. Now, it's a question how the courts feel about these crimes. I feel sorry for kidnapped people since the kidnapers are getting smarter and asking for so much more than in Big Frenchie's day. They first asked four and a half million for that Bronfman kid. That's like a dime for some other family to pay, but it's still lousy. Lindbergh should've stood up in the courtroom... and we wouldn't have this kind of trouble today."

Jerry Hoffberger, who owns the Baltimore Orioles baseball club and a malt brew named Colt-45, which employs the bravest actor on TV commercials, was fascinated by the 30-foot mechanical shark built by the producers of "Jaws." He asked to rent it for a commercial showing the brave actor being highly nonchalant about the monster as it attacks and devours the table-for-one at which the actor is enjoying himself, somewhere at sea.

The "Jaws" people said nix, they weren't renting their menacing toy that had been engineered to make like a shark. But they'd be happy to sell it outright to Hoffberger, they said, since there isn't likely to be a "Jaws II," or "Son of Jaws." They asked $20,000 and Hoffberger paid. The whirring sound that was heard immediately after the deal was closed came from the mausoleum of Jack Dunn. Dunn once bought a couple of ballplayers for Baltimore. The first, who cost him a $600 a year contract, was a fat young pitcher named Baby Ruth; the second was another Marylander, also a south-paw, named Robert Moses Grove. He cost three shark teeth, or something like that.

Now, once a commercial has been shot, what do you do with a $20,000 ersatz shark? Hoffberger came up with an answer to that one. He invited his ballplayers and their wives and girls to a party at his estate near Baltimore not long ago, lowered the candelights before dinner, then invited everybody to have a swim in his 90-foot pool.

He had the mechanical star "Jaws" lurking in the deep end, gave the signal to turn on its motor... and dozens of swimmers fled in horror as it surfaced and began thrashing about.

P.S. — Last time we looked, the Orioles were half a dozen games back of the Red Sox.

Feeling Tense And Nervous? Count Your Pork And Beans

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — An excellent way to cope with the frustrations and uncertainties of today's society is to count your beans before chewing them, says a friendly neighborhood philosopher.

Jerome Techtman, a welder, says: "For many years when I would become emotionally disturbed I would sit down, open and eat a little eight-ounce can of... pork and beans."

"I would count as I ate, and through the years the number of beans in each can always varied between 325 and 340. 'My troubles would vanish and relief was immediate.'"

The 62-year-old ex-tavern owner is considered something of a philosopher around his neighborhood in north Portland and in the pipe shop where he works.

He has other remedies "to help make life worth living in a day when no one seems to believe in anything."

Flowers abound around his home, and 10 years ago he drilled a hole in the dining room wall "just to let the outside ivy in," he said.

It now grows on all walls and the ceiling of the room.

"That way, you don't have to paint the walls and ceiling," he said while munching his beans — 93, 94, 95...

Some things he has no remedy for,

however.

"The other day I was going through my records and found that I used to buy those little cans of beans six for a quarter. The ones now on my shelf — I am never without them — are marked 17 cents each."

"And what's worse, each can now contains only about 186 beans, the rest is soup on top."

Teens Had Death List

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Authorities say four teen-agers accused of mailing a pipe bomb to one of the youth's grandmother had compiled a 10-name death list in a scheme to "change the world."

Police refused to identify those on the list, but they confirmed that it contained the names of several police officers and Madeline Pasqua, the grandmother of one of the suspects.

Steven Pasqua, 18, a second-year Rutgers University chemistry student, was arrested Friday night along with three other Newark teen-agers.

The four were slated to be arraigned today in federal court on charges of sending explosives through the mails.

Young Pasqua engaged in the plot because he wanted to inherit $10,000 upon his grandmother's death, authorities said. But Mrs. Pasqua, 68, a jeweler, said she had not made out a will.

Police said the suspects belonged to a group called the First Brotherhood, described as a revolutionary organization that wanted to change the world. Police said they had no evidence the group's membership included anyone other than the four who were arrested.

Glomar Explorer 'Rediscovered'

AVALON, Calif. (AP) — The Glomar Explorer has rendezvoused with two waiting barges in an isolated cove on Santa Catalina Island after a mysterious four-day journey from its berth in Long Beach, only 30 miles away.

The sophisticated vessel, built by billionaire Howard Hughes and used in a secret government mission to raise part of a sunken Russian submarine last summer, dropped anchor in Catalina's Fourth of July Cove on Saturday after setting out from Long Beach on Wednesday.

After two days, when the vessel had not arrived at Catalina, a spokesman for Hughes said he didn't know where the ship was.

A landmark on the old Stoutsville Road known as the Zion Church was purchased by Crist Meinfelter for $87. Lumber from the building, erected early in 1800, was to be used for construction of a farm building.

Heavy rains deposited 2.46 inches of rain on the area in a two-hour period. Accompanying lightning struck Charles Garner's grocery, corner of Pickaway and Walnut Sts., destroyed the new barn of John D. Carter near Kinderhook and the corn on the farm of Ralph Head, Pickaway Twp., was torn to shreds by the heavy hail.

While painting in the J. L. Smith block, W. Main St., Loring Kanode unearthed some relics in the attic including a memorandum book kept by the late F. M. Shulze, cancelled promissory notes of an old Exchange Bank, dated 1862, and a Stoddard arithmetic published in 1847.

Dairy equipment and the herd of Jersey dairy cows of the late G. R. Haswell and Sons were sold at public sale. The cows averaged $42 apiece.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I couldn't believe my ears when I heard that a cousin of mine had a mastoid operation. I thought that these operations were no longer necessary since the antibiotics were discovered.

Mrs. T. S., N.D.

Dear Mrs. S.:

You are correct in believing that the frequency of mastoid surgery has been diminished since the antibiotics came into active use.

The particular kind of mastoid infection that previously was seen by surgeons has been virtually eliminated. Nevertheless, occasionally these acute infections of the mastoid bone still occur. They are rare, but they do happen.

It may well be that your cousin had another type of mastoid surgery. During the past 20 years, many ingenious and intricate operations have been devised for the cure of deafness and for the reconstruction of the diseased hearing mechanism.

Since these operations are performed, too, on the mastoid bone this might be the seat of your confusion.

Are tests always done before an operation to make sure that the patient is not a "bleeder"?

Mr. N. N., Minn.

Dear Mr. N.:

Rules of safety and definite standards are set down by the American College of Surgeons.

Before any minor or major surgery is performed in any hospital, complete blood studies are done.

If these tests do not satisfy the doctor, the surgeon and the anesthesiologist, elective surgery is postponed. Elective surgery is that kind of surgery which is not urgent or of an emergency nature.

When there is any suspicion in the patient's past history that there is a bleeding tendency, special studies are made on the patient's ability to coagulate blood.

If a deficiency is present, effort is made to correct it before surgery is attempted.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH... A billion dollars a year is an enormous amount of money to pour into the coffers of medical quacks. Consult your doctor before embarking on a program for a "magical cure."

Business World

By JOHN CUNNEIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The behavior of consumers is changing in the face of rising prices and declining purchasing power, and a large segment of the business world is concerned that the change might be permanent.

If it is, American industry must prove its resiliency. It must scrap some of its favorite assumptions of what needs and motives move the marketplace, and then it must learn to respond to the new cues.

After exploring the situation, Morgan Guaranty Trust commented that "the sales stakes for the supermarket, the auto showroom, the appliance store, and myriad service industries are high; personal consumption expenditures now reach close a trillion dollars a year."

One change, that to smaller cars, already has cost Detroit hundreds of millions of dollars, has resulted in layoffs of American workers and has had an adverse impact on the country's foreign trade balance.

Tailfins, chrome, eight cylinders and plenty of power are now being replaced by fuel economy. In 1965 people often bought cars for show. Now they say "it's only transportation."

The changing attitudes are obvious, and for good reason: While family income rose 7 per cent in 1974 to $12,840 — that's the median, with half above, half below that figure — inflation turned it into a 4 per cent decline.

When economics of that sort are forced upon the consumer he reacts realistically. Unlike cities, states and federal government, he doesn't dare to go into deficit financing for long. Eventually he cuts back.

The attitude toward college has changed. Those who found their family income elevated suddenly during the 1960s insisted that their children go to big name schools. "Nothing's more important than education," they said.

Now they extol the advantages of community colleges. They rationalize: "If you really want an education you can get it anywhere."

Unsure of the future, Americans have cut back on a vast number of discretionary items. Europe at any cost was once the motto of some young American couples. Now they seek to discover their own backyards.

The 1960s were years of consumption. Gobble up everything you could buy, from lean red meat to the biggest house you could, or maybe could not, afford. Get yours; a new era of affluence has been reached. A lot of people believed that.

Slowly, Americans are learning to conserve as well as consume. The messages that come from the advertising media are still overwhelmingly for consumption. But conservation gets a mention.

Yes, the marketplace is changing, and that means American industry must change also. In some instances industries must be prepared to settle for smaller markets, and for American business, that's a new challenge.

Kopechnes Say Advice To Teddy Bad

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gwen Kopechne, whose daughter was killed six years ago when a car driven by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy plunged off a bridge, is quoted as saying Kennedy got bad advice about the accident and then couldn't back out of it to tell the truth.

Mrs. Kopechne is quoted by "New Times" magazine as saying she also believes the Massachusetts Democrat was confused about the mishap when he made his first statements about it.

"He had poor advice, right from the time it happened. I think he got so involved in this lousy advice and then couldn't back out and tell the truth. He got deeper and deeper into it," Mrs. Kopechne is quoted as saying.

According to the interview, the Kopechnes say they believe their daughter, Mary Jo, was sleeping in the back seat of Kennedy's car when it ran off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island.

Mary Jo was a 28-year-old former campaign worker for Kennedy's brother, Robert, and had attended a party with a group of other persons on the small island adjoining Martha's Vineyard, Mass., on the night of July 18, 1969.

Kennedy's sworn statement is that he was returning to his hotel and taking Mary Jo back to hers when he made a wrong turn and accidentally drove off the bridge. He said he managed somehow to escape from the submerged car but was unable to rescue the girl.

Joseph Kopechne is quoted by the magazine as saying he and his wife rejected an autopsy later because "we were led to believe that the autopsy was primarily to find out if my daughter was pregnant."

Interviewed Sunday night at their Swiftwater, Pa., home, the Kopechnes expressed surprise at news of the article. Joseph Kopechne told a reporter for the Wilkes-Barre Times-Leader, Evening News, Record that he had talked with a journalist while at Martha's Vineyard, but he said he was not aware the conversation would be published.

A Page Of Opinion

Clearing Away Resource Cobwebs

Rawleigh Warner Jr., chairman of the Mobil Oil complex, has urged a slow decontrolling of oil prices, to prevent shock of higher prices taxes, saying the money might be needed as a cushion in the future.

President Gerald Ford has urged a tax incentive program to industry and business, to rebuild a strong economy.

Both stands are dependent on the same factor—America's natural resources. Warner is concerned primarily with energy resources, such as oil, natural gas and coal. However, on a wider basis, all of America's resources will be needed to provide for a better future.

In this regard, a comprehensive program is needed to develop those resources for balanced use in the future.

One of the most interesting proposals to surface in recent years has been "Operation Punchboard."

Dr. John Ridge, who is head of the Department of Mineral Economics at Penn State University is spearhead of the proposal.

Dr. Ridge has proposed that the entire nation become a resources grid, with squares of 20 miles on each side. In each of these 7,500-plus squares, holes three miles deep would be drilled.

Such a web of holes would give a complete map of the nation's below-ground resources, including fossil fuels and other minerals and ores.

Cost of the project has been estimated at several billion dollars. Return on the investment could be several hundred times that amount.

Such a massive program would require some type of federal participation, but would doubtless be worth it.

We hope Dr. Ridge's plan will not die aborning. It deserves serious consideration.

Hoffa Is Through

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — "He's through," Toots Shor said of his missing friend, Jimmy Hoffa.

"Through?" a puzzled reporter asked. "Through in the Teamsters?"

"No, stupid," Toots explained. "He's through. They killed him."

"Why do you say that, when even the FBI says it doesn't know?"

"Because you'd be hearing something from Jim by now," Toots said. "He was just too tough, too smart, to let anything like this go on so long. Somebody wanted to keep him from coming back to where he had been before Bobby Kennedy put him away. Somebody — only a couple guys, maybe — didn't want him back. So they had him grabbed and buried him somewhere."

Shor once borrowed $5,000,000 from Hoffa's Teamsters Union pension fund to build a restaurant and garage in midtown Manhattan, paid it all back ... and then some of his own, before he came up losers. All that Hoffa did was nod when Toots made his application. Hoffa had that much clout. Jimmy did the same for many other applicants ordinary bankers might shy away from with a shrill whinny. But he always enriched the fund.

Shor has known many tough guys since he came to New York 45 years ago from Philadelphia, where he had also known a few and more importantly, had learned how to handle them. He maintains a certain admiration for some of them he met along the way, but not for today's hoods.

"There were some real creeps among some of the old tough guys, sure, especially during Prohibition," Toots was musing at Rose's Restaurant the other day, where he is warming up for his new place opposite Madison Square Garden. "But they wouldn't kill a guy they kidnapped. They'd get hard up, let's say, so they'd grab a guy like Big Frenchie, hold him a couple of days, get the 40 or 50 grand they needed, and send him back home. Nobody got sore until they began to kill people. Like Charlie Sherman. They killed him and then put him in cement, out they did such a lousy job that one of his feet stuck out of the cement. Some farmer saw it sticking out on his farm, called the cops, and the guys were caught."

"What Lindbergh should've done was stand up in court and shoot Hauptmann dead, and everybody would have approved. Now, it's a question how the courts feel about these crimes. I feel sorry for kidnapped people since the kidnapers are getting smarter and asking for so much more than in Big Frenchie's day. They first asked four and a half million for that Bronfman kid. That's like a dime for some other family to pay, but it's still lousy. Lindbergh should've stood up in the courtroom ... and we wouldn't have this kind of trouble today."

Jerry Hoffberger, who owns the Baltimore Orioles baseball club and a malt brew named Colt-45, which employs the bravest actor on TV commercials, was fascinated by the 30-foot mechanical shark built by the producers of "Jaws." He asked to rent it for a commercial showing the brave actor being highly nonchalant about the monster as it attacks and devours the table-for-one at which the actor is enjoying himself, somewhere at sea.

The "Jaws" people said nix, they weren't renting their menacing toy that had been engineered to make like a shark. But they'd be happy to sell it outright to Hoffberger, they said, since there isn't likely to be a "Jaws II," or "Son of Jaws." They asked $20,000 and Hoffberger paid. The whirring sound that was heard immediately after the deal was closed came from the mausoleum of Jack Dunn. Dunn once bought a couple of ballplayers for Baltimore. The first, who cost him a $600 a year contract, was a fat young pitcher named Baby Ruth; the second was another Marylander, also a southpaw, named Robert Moses Grove. He cost three shark teeth, or something like that.

Now, once a commercial has been shot, what do you do with a $20,000 ersatz shark? Hoffberger came up with an answer to that one. He invited his ballplayers and their wives and girls to a party at his estate near Baltimore not long ago, lowered the candelights before dinner, then invited everybody to have a swim in his 90-foot pool.

He had the mechanical star "Jaws" lurking in the deep end, gave the signal to turn on its motor ... and dozens of swimmers fled in horror as it surfaced and began thrashing about.

P.S. — Last time we looked, the Orioles were half a dozen games back of the Red Sox.

Teens Had Death List

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Authorities say four teen-agers accused of mailing a pipe bomb to one of the youth's grandmother had compiled a 10-name death list in a scheme to "change the world."

Police refused to identify those on the list, but they confirmed that it contained the names of several police officers and Madeline Pasqua, the grandmother of one of the suspects.

Steven Pasqua, 18, a second-year Rutgers University chemistry student, was arrested Friday night along with three other Newark teen-agers.

The four were slated to be arraigned today in federal court on charges of sending explosives through the mails.

National Feedgrain Forecast Decreases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department's Outlook and Situation Board has changed again its forecast of how much feedgrain livestock producers will be using this coming season.

At the same time, the board is trying to get a grip on what it's now calling a "unique time" at the ranch.

The Aug. 12 supply and demand estimates projected a range of 3.97 billion to 4.27 billion bushels of corn to be used domestically in the 1975-76 season — 88 per cent of it going to animals.

That was a drop, in response to revived prices in the wake of the July grain purchases by the Soviet Union, from the July 25 range of 4.27 billion to 4.47 billion bushels.

Ten days later, the range fell again to between 4 billion and 4.3 billion bushels. The export projections, increased Aug. 12, remained steady at 1.3 billion to 1.5 billion.

But the estimate of end-of-season stocks—forecasts of which tend to influence both production decisions and price movements — were cut once again. They had gone from 842 million bushels last month to a range two weeks ago of 621 million to 721 million.

Last Friday, the board predicted "Oct. 1, 1976, carryover stocks in a range of 600-700 million bushels, compared with 335 million bushels for this October."

These are not idle, esoteric numbers, USDA experts point out. They are reflections of "a great deal of internal uncertainty and a need for some caution," said one.

Time and again last Thursday, at special briefings on the impact of weather damage to the still-record feedgrain crops and of the export boom, the department's top forecasters hammered away on the theme that what happens to food prices depends on what meat producers do in response to feed prices.

The extent of further Russian sales will affect the feed prices as much as the final harvest, but the officials are much more confident about their predictions in those two areas, given "normal weather."

When they turn to the livestock production business and the feed markets, the forecasters become very careful in the words they use.

"Prices of slaughter cattle and hogs appear high enough to encourage expansion of feeding even at present levels of feed prices. But it appears that slaughter animal prices are likely to decline this fall," the board said.

Total feedgrain production is forecast at 25 per cent greater than last year, but the record June-July slaughter and meat prices reflect last year's drought-cut grain supply and two years of severe instabilities in the livestock market.

New Inn Planned For Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A new, $8-10 million Holiday Inn, which would serve as a convention center, is being negotiated for downtown Cincinnati, according to former mayor Eugene Ruehlmann.

The 16-story hotel would contain 300 rooms with meeting rooms and banquet facilities to accommodate 600 persons.

Ruehlmann, who is acting as an attorney for the Holiday Inn group, said an agreement is near. He said he was not certain when construction would get underway.

The new center would be named Cincinnati Convention Inn, Ruehlmann said. It would be located at Fifth and Elms streets, across from Stouffer's Inn.

Coal Strike Continues

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — About 300 striking West Virginia coal miners began the third week of a wildcat strike Monday with a parade, a scuffle with police and with renewed threats that they would spread the walkout nationwide.

The march here by miners erupted into a series of scuffles when police tried to keep the protesters from marching illegally on a one way street and then attempted to confiscate a pickup truck.

Outnumbered policemen with night sticks faced off against fist swinging miners for about five minutes, with several on both sides being knocked to the ground. The fighting ended when police returned the truck keys and the miners agreed to march on another street.

There apparently were no injuries and no arrests were reported.

The march was the latest highlight in a strike which has now idled some 37,000 miners in West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio and Virginia. Monday's rally was planned at a pair of rallies staged Sunday in the heart of the southern coalfields. The miners protested a string of back-to-work orders — each of which has been ignored — by District Judge K. K. Hall and the jailing by Hall of a Logan County miner.

Colleges Again Gain Popularity

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — A college education is big business again in Indiana as people head back to the campus in droves looking for a route to a better job.

An Associated Press survey of the state's major colleges shows dormitory space at a premium as both enrollments and applications for financial aid approach record levels.

"We were up last year, but this year we've gone through the roof," said Indiana University housing official Larry Gaffney. He said the space shortage is so acute at IU that an estimated 900 entering students will have to settle for temporary housing for awhile.

Claim Improvements Being Made In Mail Service

By HOWARD ANGIOONE
Associated Press Writer

When postal officials talk about mail delays, they like to stress what they are doing to improve service.

The Postal Service is working on several projects that appear promising but it has promised improvements before, only to have service get worse.

In late 1972 and early 1973, for example, a Postal Service economy drive made so many changes so fast that the result, as summarized in a recent congressional report, was "service deterioration and mail tie-ups requiring weeks to unravel."

There is even some question about whether service today is better than it used to be. Critics say that in the late 1960s the old Post Office Department was delivering first-class mail overnight within entire states, and providing second-day delivery to other domestic destinations.

Postal officials acknowledge that this was a "goal" in many areas, but say there was no effective system to check on how well the goals were met. Changes in distribution patterns since then, they say, have been designed to improve over-all efficiency.

Today, the Postal Service standards for first-class are next-day delivery in metropolitan regions, second-day delivery to destinations within 600 miles, and third-day delivery for domestic letters traveling more than 600 miles. Officials say the standards are being met more than 90 per cent of the time.

Delivery standards for airmail are comparable to the 1969 goals, and plans to extend airmail service to first-class include a promise that virtually all the mail affected will be delivered within two days.

This extension of airmail service, originally scheduled to begin Aug. 1, has been postponed until questions about rates are resolved. But even the announcement of the plan amounted to an admission that the Airmail

Improvement Program, launched in 1971 to increase airmail volume, had not been able to provide significantly better service than first-class.

Stung by studies showing that the large letter sorting machines — LSMs — are responsible for delaying millions of letters each day, the Postal Service says it is making a concerted effort to correct problems with the machines.

There is no thought of abandoning the LSMs. Officials say they are necessary to save money and to speed mail sorting. Instead, efforts are directed toward improving the present machines, helping LSM operators work more efficiently, and developing new machines.

The Postal Service has 150 new LSMs, at a cost of $180,000 each, on order for delivery starting next August. Don Haag, director of letter mail systems development, said in an interview that the machines will have substantially different inner workings designed to cut the machine error rate from almost two per cent to substantially less than one per cent.

In addition, he said, to improve working conditions for LSM operators and help them work more accurately, the new machines will be quieter and have console keyboards that will make it impossible for two keys to be struck at once — a problem that studies have blamed for many operator errors.

These new features are also being installed in existing machines as they are overhauled, Haag said.

The machines help speed the mail, officials say, because they offer the potential for a greater "depth of sort" — an LSM clerk can direct a letter to any one of 277 sorting bins, eliminating much of the resorting necessary on mail processed manually. A clerk sorting by hand generally works in front of a box with only 77 pigeonholes.

For the longer run, the Postal Service hopes to harness computer technology.

In addition to the 562 LSMs operated by men and women, the Postal Service has 25 that use a computerized optical process to "read" typewritten addresses and feed letters into an LSM at the rate of 12 per second. The process eliminates the need for the 12 clerks who operate the current LSMs.

There have been problems in developing the optical readers, but Haag says the Postal Service now has an optical character reading ability "that no one else can match."

Checks by a reporter at the bins of three LSMs being fed by optical character readers found few errors and demonstrated a feature that planners have striven to build into the computer memory — it can sort letters without zip codes because the computer reads city and state names.

The computer also compares zip codes with city and state names, overriding the zip if it is sure the code is wrong or sending the letter to a reject bin if it can't resolve the conflict.

The Postal Service says it is holding back on commitments to buy more optical readers until it has evaluated research designed to determine how they can be deployed most economically, and on how they may mesh with other advanced equipment being developed.

Officials say they have gone ahead with ordering more LSMs because the machines could later be easily converted to computerized operation.

Studies on new equipment are under way at a postal research installation at Rockville, Md., and at a test site in the Cincinnati, Ohio, post office.

A major objective of the Cincinnati operation is to evaluate a system that calls for a "bar code" to be placed on an envelope once the address is looked at by either an operator or a computerized optical character reader.

The bar code — a series of long and short thin lines printed in the lower right-hand corner of an envelope — can record both the zip code and the street address. It is similar to the thick and thin lines now being printed on many food packages.

The object is to make it possible for less expensive bar code reading machines to handle subsequent sorting operations that now require another pass before the eyes of an LSM clerk or more sorting by hand.

Since the Cincinnati test site was established six years ago, it has been the subject of criticism that it has cost too much and that the code concept won't work.

Jesse T. Ellington Jr., senior assistant postmaster general for administration, says expenditures in Cincinnati have totaled "about $50 million, but I don't consider that exorbitant in view of the stakes."

Ohio Theatre Series Opens With 'Irene' Oct. 13

Eight Broadway shows will play Columbus this fall-winter season.

Announcing the '75-76 Ohio Theatre Subscription Series, Danny Deeds explained that each event appearing in the newly refurbished Ohio Theatre will run for three consecutive days, Monday through Wednesday or Thursday through Saturday, with a matinee on the final day of each play.

"Irene" sparkles the season open Oct. 13. Bubbling spirits, tap-dancing chorus lines, familiar tunes, and wholesome comedy combine to make a snappy revival of this delightful vintage musical. Hailed by critics nationwide as a "flawless gem of American theatre", "Irene" is outstanding family entertainment and features a major star in the title role.

Next is "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope", Oct. 30-Nov. 1. "Unique", "Joyous", "Heart-warming", reviewers say of this winner of 29 coveted awards, including Best Musical of '72. Created by two black women, Vinette Carroll and Micki Grant, "Don't Bother Me" is a celebration of the human spirit so exuberant that it has been heard over by popular demand on both coasts.

"All Over Town", Nov. 17-19, is fresh from its Broadway run, having earned critical accolades as "best American comedy of the year". Linking two of the nation's brightest talents, author Murray Shisgal and director Dustin Hoffman have apparently enjoyed the most hilarious collaboration in a

Cleveland Storm Loss Tops Million

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A state-federal damage inspection team is to view storm damage which one city official estimates at around $1 million to see if Cleveland qualifies for disaster aid.

Mayor Ralph Perk said he asked Monday that the city be declared a disaster area and was assured that the inspection team would be here today.

An aide to the mayor, Ina Keegan, said when damage from Sunday's torrential rainstorm has been fully assessed the total may run into millions of dollars.

"The streets department says there is at least a quarter of a million dollars damage to streets," said Mrs. Keegan. "The utilities department is just beginning to assess the damage but they say it could be in the millions of dollars."

However, Utilities Director Raymond Kudukis said he believed the damage total would run around $1 million.

The disaster classification would make residents eligible for low interest loans to repair property damage. The city would also be reimbursed for damage to publicly-owned facilities.

Darbyville MD Carnival Collects $35

A total of $35 was collected at a Muscular Dystrophy carnival held recently in Darbyville.

Co-chairmen were Julie Caudill and Karen Peters assisted by Jodi Hulse. Children helping with the games were Ricky Gartin, Gary Gartin, Melanie Williams, Sherry Cathel, Scott Caudill and Kevin Peters. Adult advisors were Mrs. Richard Caudill and Mrs. Denver Peters.

Vandals Damage 2 Parked Cars

Vandals damaged two cars parked on Franklin St., according to Circleville Police reports.

Shirley Bass, 411 E. Union St., told police that vandals poured an unknown substance into the gasoline tank of her car and pulled the coil wire off the vehicle.

A car owned by Ms. Bass' sister, which was parked immediately behind hers on Franklin St., had all the wires ripped from it and a rag stuffed in the carburetor.

Vivian Bowman, Route 4, told police that thieves broke into her home Monday to take a 30-30 Winchester rifle valued at $100.

historical drama, illuminating the wisdom of our earliest patriots in the troubled year of 1799.

"Absurd Person Singular", current toast of Broadway, joins the roster Feb. 5-7. Tough N.Y. Times critics Walter Kerr and Clive Barnes call this show a "Brilliant comedy" and "Dazzlingly funny". 'Breath Of Life' Campaign Slated

The Cystic Fibrosis "Breath of Life Campaign" will be held Sept. 7-14 in Pickaway County.

Volunteer campaign leaders in Pickaway County are: Mrs. William Cauer, Orient, Mrs. Ethel Maze, 416 Cedar Heights Road, and Ms. Joyce Jarrell, Commercial Point.

4-HER RECOGNIZED—Bonnie Jan Bolender of Pickaway County was among the more than 50 individuals honored at this year's 4-H Recognition Day Breakfast in the Rhodes Center at the Ohio State Fair Monday. Bonnie was cited as the winner of the state leadership award given by the fair. In addition to the breakfast for the winners and their parents, the award included a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago in December. Bonnie has been a member of the Pickaway County Junior Leaders, Washington Hill Climbers, Buttons and Bowls Sr. and Good Neighbors 4-H Clubs and has been active for 10 years. Projects include medicine, first aid, dairy goats, steers, conservation, clothing, food and nutrition. She has also served as a delegate and counselor at the state 4-H Junior Leadership Camp. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bolender, Route 4. Pictured with Bonnie is Roger May, Circleville, a state fair director.

September 3 will be the opening day of school for Juniors attending the Pickaway-Ross Vocational Center.

Juniors will begin their first day, by attending an orientation program which will be held at 8:45 a.m. in the Vocational School Cafeteria. The orientation program is designed to give 11th grade students information about the school facilities, vocational programs, special services for students, etc. In addition, students will be given their schedule of classes, their locker assignments, student handbooks, and tool kit information.

Immediately after the 11th grade orientation program, students will proceed to their regular classes. Thursday, September 4th will be the first day of school at the Vocational Center for seniors and the second day for juniors. On Thursday, juniors should report immediately to their first period class. However, seniors should report to the cafeteria for their orientation program.

All students who have filled out a driving permit form have had their permits approved therefore, these students are eligible to drive to the Vocational Center. Students planning to ride their home school bus to the center, should check with their home school about busing arrangements. A limited number of openings are still available at the Vocational Center in the following Junior training programs: Horticulture, Child Care, Food Service, Home & Community and Engineering Graphics.

Two senior programs, Diversified Cooperative Training and Agriculture Business also have openings.

Students who are bonifide Juniors and Seniors and who have an interest in the above programs at the Vocational Center, and have not yet made application, should do so as soon as possible by contacting their Home School Guidance Counselor.

would fuel inflation and increase unemployment.

The proposed legislation, Senate bill S. 1479, would allow members of one trade union having a grievance with their employer — electricians, for example — to induce uninvolved tradesmen such as painters, plumbers and glaziers to halt all work on a building construction site.

"Consumers will pay the tab in the form of higher rental rates, hospital charges and federal, school and other taxes if S. 1479 becomes law," Butler said. "This 'common situs' picketing bill opens the way for more work stoppages on residential, commercial and government construction projects, with resulting higher costs and unemployment."

Because of these concerns and the possibility that the bill will hinder industrial expansions, Butler said he has communicated his opposing viewpoint to the state's Senators, Robert Taft Jr. and John Glenn. He urged consumers to become familiar with the bill's inflation and unemployment potential and make their opinion known as well.

Butler added that "it is especially critical for consumers to voice their opposition now, since the House of Representatives recently passed their version of the bill and the Senate may act soon after the August recess."

The PPG plant manager termed common situs picketing a secondary boycott, noting that "obviously, the plumbing contractor, for example, has no power to resolve a labor dispute between the electricians and the electrical contractor." Secondary boycotts or strikes against uninvolved parties are forbidden by current law.

He concluded that "it is difficult to see how this legislation could do anything but harm to the goals of expanded low and middle-income housing, control of inflation, and reduction of unemployment in the construction industry."

Ohio Theatre Series Opens With 'Irene' Oct. 13

Eight Broadway shows will play Columbus this fall-winter season.

Announcing the '75-'76 Ohio Theatre Subscription Series, Danny Deeds explained that each event appearing in the newly refurbished Ohio Theatre will run for three consecutive days, Monday through Wednesday or Thursday through Saturday, with a matinee on the final day of each play.

"Irene" sparkles the season open Oct. 13. Bubbling spirits, tap-dancing chorus lines, familiar tunes, and wholesome comedy combine to make a snappy revival of this delightful vintage musical. Hailed by critics nationwide as a "flawless gem of American theatre", "Irene" is outstanding family entertainment and features a major star in the title role.

Next is "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope", Oct. 30-Nov. 1. "Unique", "Joyous", "Heart-warming", reviewers say of this winner of 29 coveted awards, including Best Musical of '72. Created by two black women, Vinette Carroll and Micki Grant, "Don't Bother Me" is a celebration of the human spirit so exuberant that it has been held over by popular demand on both coasts.

"All Over Town", Nov. 17-19, is fresh from its Broadway run, having earned critical accolades as "best American comedy of the year". Linking two of the nation's brightest talents, author Murray Shisgal and director Dustin Hoffman have apparently enjoyed the most hilarious collaboration in a generation, blending brilliant wit with a slightly cock-eyed loving look at life.

Tin-pan Alley great Sammy Cahn entertains Dec. 8-10 with his own "Words and Music". Winner of seven Oscars for film scores and such hits as "Three Coins in the Fountain" and "All the Way", Cahn and his supporting cast is now charming New York with his music and back room stories of Hollywood and Broadway, providing a rare peek into the lives of stars and the world of show biz Cahn calls "home".

Following is the distinguished bi-centennial presentation, "Together Tonight! Hamilton, Jefferson, and Burr!" Appearing Jan. 8-10 are TV and film stars Howard Duff, Dana Andrews, Monte Markham, and John Anderson, who are taking time out from busy Hollywood schedules to devote their talents to this important historical drama, illuminating the wisdom of our earliest patriots in the troubled year of 1799.

"Absurd Person Singular", current toast of Broadway, joins the roster Feb. 5-7. Tough N.Y. Times critics Walter Kerr and Clive Barnes call this show a "Brilliant comedy" and "Dazzlingly funny". Modern as this moment, social manners are roasted in the kitchens of three high-spiced Christmas parties in this riotous sophisticated domestic comedy.

Cleveland Storm Loss Tops Million

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A state-federal damage inspection team is to view storm damage which one city official estimates at around $1 million to see if Cleveland qualifies for disaster aid.

Mayor Ralph Perk said he asked Monday that the city be declared a disaster area and was assured that the inspection team would be here today.

An aide to the mayor, Ina Keegan, said when damage from Sunday's torrential rainstorm has been fully assessed the total may run into millions of dollars.

"The streets department says there is at least a quarter of a million dollars damage to streets," said Mrs. Keegan. "The utilities department is just beginning to assess the damage but they say it could be in the millions of dollars."

However, Utilities Director Raymond Kudukis said he believed the damage total would run around $1 million.

The disaster classification would make residents eligible for low interest loans to repair property damage. The city would also be reimbursed for damage to publicly-owned facilities.

Broncos Quiet And Workmanlike

DENVER (AP) — One of the identifying traits of the Denver Bronco football team in 1975 is a quiet, workmanlike confidence. Gone are the wild, improbable predictions by the coaching staff and players.

The 10-4 season envisioned by several Broncos a year ago vanished amid key injuries and flat performances early in the season. The source of those great expectations was Denver's first winning season ever—a 7-5-2 record in 1973 that was nearly good enough to make the playoffs.

Thus, the 7-6-1 mark of last year came as a bit of a disappointment. Coach John Ralston is guarding against overconfidence this time around.

"This should be our best football team," Ralston says. Period.

Denver appears to have helped itself via the draft and a few trades. But just how much this team can improve will depend on its success in two meetings with Oakland, and games with such solid clubs as Pittsburgh, Miami, Buffalo and Cincinnati.

Playing in the same division as Oakland minimizes the Broncos' chances for taking a title. Yet Ralston insists the team must aim for winning the division, rather than counting on gaining the AFC wild-card berth in the playoffs.

Recognizing the need for shoring up a defense that gave up nearly as many points as the offense scored, the Broncos made defensive players four of their first five picks in January's draft. The No. 1 choice was San Jose State cornerback Louis Wright, a 6-foot-2, 190-pounder who should earn a starting job before the season is over.

If tackle Paul Smith is fully recovered from a severe Achilles tendon injury that sidelined him most of last season, the Denver defense should be stronger. The pass rush was nearly non-existent during Smith's absence.

The starting linebacker corps is excellent, with Randy Gradishar, the team's top draft pick last year, moving into the middle and Ray May and Tom Jackson flanking him. Jackson, the linebacker from Louisville, seems destined for stardom if he can avoid the injuries that have dogged him his first two seasons.

Wright is battling John Rowser for one starting cornerback spot, with 5-7 Calvin Jones at the other. Bill Thompson and John Pitts are the safeties.

The Broncos have assembled one of the NFL's most underrated offensive lines, which revolves around steady center Bobby Maples. Guard Paul Howard, a 6-3, 260-pound third-year man, is a budding star.

Borg Faces Vilas Tonight In Tennis

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer

Sweden's Bjorn Borg and Argentina's Guillermo Vilas are close buddies, but they'll try to beat each other's brains out tonight in a showdown for the 48th U.S. Pro Tennis Championship in Brookline, Mass.

"We're good friends, but have to try to hate on the court," said Borg, the 19-year-old defending champion who has won 11 matches in a row at Longwood.

Vilas and Borg are expected to try to whip each other with top-spin shots. That's what they specialize in as two of the world's foremost players.

"We practice together often," Borg said. "I know his game and he knows mine. I think I'll have to play very well to win."

The showdown for the championship and $16,000 first prize in the $100,000 tournament is a rematch of the French Open final. Borg won that confrontation, but found himself seeded second, behind Vilas, in defense of the U.S. Pro title.

Vilas lost his first set in five matches here Monday, but charged into the finals with a 4-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-4 victory over Wimbledon champion Arthur Ashe. A few hours later, Borg easily passed his semifinal test by defeating John Alexander of Australia 6-3, 6-7, 6-3, 6-0 under the lights.

Cliff Victorious In State Fair Race

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Frank Todd Jr. of Miamisburg, piloting Cliff, picked up one of the victories Monday as the four-day Ohio State Fair harness racing program got underway. Cliff won two straight heats in the $24,350 Ohio State Two-Year-Old Trot over the halfmile fairgrounds track.

Reds Whip Cubs, 11-4

CHICAGO (AP) — Darrel Chaney couldn't have been happier unless "Mom and Dad had been here" but the Chicago Cubs were upset after their 11-4 loss to the Cincinnati Reds Monday. Chaney hit his first home run of the season and his first ever in Wrigley Field, much to the joy of 17 members of his family including his wife and his son.

"I left 17 passes and saw them all jumping around after I came around third base," said the native of nearby Hammond, Ind. "Only Mom and Dad weren't here. Dad had to work and Mom thought it might be too hot. I hope they saw it on television."

Chaney's homer came in the fifth inning with two mates aboard. He also singled home a run in the second inning to hike his season total to 20 which "is my career high in runs batted in."

"I always dreamed of hitting a home run in this park," the Reds' shortstop said. "Ernie Banks was my hero."

The Reds pounded out 19 hits with Tony Perez reaching a milestone—his 1,000th run batted in. George Foster and Pete Rose had three hits each while six other players had two each, and that's one of the reasons the Cubs were angry.

The Reds were leading 10-4 in the ninth inning when Dave Concepcion, who had doubled across a run, decided to go from second to third on a fly ball to left by Bill Plummer.

Concepcion, who is overcoming an injured wrist, was safe but he collided with Bill Madlock and Madlock had to leave the game with a slightly injured knee.

Madlock, the Cubs third baseman, who has been a one-man terror against the Reds this season, collected two more hits including his seventh homer of the year. He now has 25 hits in 43

times at bat against Cincinnati.

But he was angry about the game. "How many runs were they ahead?" said Madlock. "I don't think we'd have done it to them if we were that many runs ahead."

Manager Jim Marshall also was angry about the play.

"The guy going to third didn't show me much class," said Marshall. I told the coach (Alex Grammas) that and he didn't respond. That should tell you something."

Manager Sparky Anderson of the Reds tried to apologize for Concepcion. "We told him he shouldn't do that," said Anderson. "But he's such an aggressive player, he was just trying to get us another run."

Baseball's being a game of inches, not minutes, may have cost Houston's Cliff Johnson a home run record. The game of inches was rain Monday night — inches of rain which washed away Johnson's sixth home run in as many consecutive games and cost the Astros a 4-3 victory.

There were two outs in the bottom of the 11th inning when the skies opened over Busch Stadium. After 134 minutes of trying to get that last batter to the plate, umpire Ed Sudol made the rainout official.

"I've never seen this happen in the 35 years I've been in baseball; a rainout with only one out to go," said the veteran Sudol. "We gave it every possible chance."

"That's the way it goes," said Johnson, whose homer over the left-field fence was Houston's calm before the storm. "At least the rain will help the farmers."

Had the 11th inning been completed and Johnson's home run counted, it would have made the 28-year-old catcher only the second man in National League history and the sixth overall to hit home runs in six consecutive games. Dale Long, who hit homers in eight straight for the 1956 Pittsburgh Pirates, was the only other National Leaguer to do it.

Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh blanked Atlanta 4-0; Philadelphia trimmed Los Angeles 4-2; Cincinnati bombed Chicago 11-4, and New York stopped San Diego 4-0.

The Astros-Cards contest enters the season records as a 3-3, 10-inning tie, and will be replayed from the start as part of a doubleheader tonight although all performances in the 10 innings Monday will go into the books.

Pirates 4, Braves 0

"This is the kind of sharpness I had last year," said left-hander Jim Rooker after his threehitter and a pair of run-scoring singles by Willie Stargell led the Pirates over the Braves.

"If I had been pitching this way all season we'd probably have a three or four-game bigger lead than we do," he added.

Phillies 4, Dodgers 2

Mike Schmidt slugged his 31st home run and Greg Luzinski drove in his 102nd and 103rd runs of the year to carry Philadelphia past Los Angeles.

Schmidt's home run came in the second inning off Andy Messersmith, 14-13, and tied him with Luzinski for the major league lead.

Mets 4, Padres 0

New York right-hander Hank Webb gave up five singles in earning his first major league shutout and helping the Mets snap San Diego's three-game winning streak.

Jerry Grote tripled home a run in the second inning and rookie Mike Vail singled home a run in the fifth with one of his four hits to help Webb, 6-5, best former Met Brent Strom, 5-3.

Rookie pitchers Dennis Eckersley of Cleveland and Jim Umberger of Texas don't mind finishing games. The thing is, they'd like a chance to start what they finish.

They pitched to a photo finish with three-hitters Monday night, Eckersley firing 6 1-3 hitless innings as the Indians beat the Chicago White Sox 5-1 — the run was unearned — while Umberger was hurling the Rangers to a 1-0 triumph over the Detroit Tigers.

Both youngsters began the season in their respective bullpens. Eckersley, a

Drawings for the A.S.A. sanctioned tournament will be 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the V.A. Hospital diamond. Trophies will be given to the first four teams and individual trophies presented to the first three places.

The 15-run rule will be in effect and there will be no infield practice. For further information contact Monte Queen, 775-5431 or Bud Ryan, 775-3571.

Wilmington Friends Invitational A.S.A. sanctioned womens slow pitch tournament will be held Saturday, Sunday and Monday at Denver Williams Park in Wilmington.

Drawing will be 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the shelter house at the park. Open teams are excluded from the tournament.

Trophies will be awarded to the first four teams with individual trophies going to the first place team.

Additional information may be obtained from Bill Robison, 513-382-2478.

Frazier Wins Atomic Race

Bud Frazier in the Tecumseh Inn sprinter of Chillicothe won his second feature at Atomic Speedway Saturday night. Frazier started in the No. 1 position and immediately stretched his lead for the feature win. He was followed by Steve Liskai, Woodville.

The previous week's rained-out super sprint feature went to Jim Wical of Raymond, followed by Paul Barnes. This was an "edge-of-the-seat" race between Barnes, Wical, and Bud Frazier. Barnes took the lead early and held it withstanding heavy-heavy pressure lap after lap until the white flag lap when he came upon a slow car in turn four enabling Wical to slip under him and go on in for the win.

The regular Late Model feature winner was Moe Beeler in the Travis Sunoco Dodge. He was challenged continuously by Skip Mount who finished second.

The rained out late model feature went to Bobby Oney of Jackson, who was pressured the entire race by Jim Patrick. Patrick finished second on Oney's rear bumper.

In the Midget feature Steve Ball of Ft. Wayne, Ind., was the winner, but only after staving off the pressure of Mike Brill, second.

right-hander, made his first start May 25 while lefty Umberger had to wait until June 13. Neither has any intention of going back on relief.

In the only other American League action, the Minnesota Twins downed the Milwaukee Brewers 6-3. Baltimore was rained out at Kansas City while the other teams were not scheduled.

Eckersley allowed four walks before Bill Melton broke up his no-hit bid with one out in the seventh, driving a grounder just past diving shortstop Frank Duffy into center field. The hit scored Deron Johnson, who walked and went to second on a passed ball.

Manager Frank Robinson and Charlie Spikes slammed consecutive home runs for the Indians in the bottom of the eighth off veteran Jim Kaat, Chicago's 18-game winner.

Eckersley walked five this time — "Five walks is a lot for him," Robinson said—but struck out eight.

"It would have been nice to throw a no-hitter," he said, "but you've got to be very lucky. You've got to have so many breaks. I threw 144 pitches and I

Rangers 1, Tigers 0

Umberger retired the first nine Detroit batters before Ron LeFlore singled to start the fourth. LeFlore was erased in a double play and Umberger faced the minimum number of batters until he walked LeFlore leading off the seventh. The Tigers' other hits were Leon Roberts' double in the eighth and Gary Sutherland's single in the ninth.

The Rangers scored off Ray Bare in the second inning when Jim Spencer singled with one out, moved up as Toby Harrah walked and came home on Tom Grieve's single. The triumph lifted the Rangers into third place in the AL West, one percentage point ahead of the White Sox.

Twins 6, Brewers 3

Dave McKay's second home run in four major league games and Rod Carew's RBI single helped the Twins hand the Brewers their 20th loss in 25 games. McKay's two-run shot into the left-field stands off Jim Slaton gave the Twins a 2-0 lead in the second inning. A third run scored on a walk, Lyman Bostock's single and an error. A double by Bostock and Carew's single pushed the lead to 4-1 in the fourth.

Bill Butler earned the victory with six shutout innings of two-hit relief after starter Joe Decker allowed only one hit but walked six in three innings plus.

Broncos Quiet And Workmanlike

DENVER (AP) — One of the identifying traits of the Denver Bronco football team in 1975 is a quiet, workmanlike confidence. Gone are the wild, improbable predictions by the coaching staff and players.

The 10-4 season envisioned by several Broncos a year ago vanished amid key injuries and flat performances early in the season. The source of those great expectations was Denver's first winning season ever—a 7-5-2 record in 1973 that was nearly good enough to make the playoffs.

Thus, the 7-6-1 mark of last year came as a bit of a disappointment. Coach John Ralston is guarding against overconfidence this time around.

"This should be our best football team," Ralston says. Period.

Denver appears to have helped itself via the draft and a few trades. But just how much this team can improve will depend on its success in two meetings with Oakland, and games with such solid clubs as Pittsburgh, Miami, Buffalo and Cincinnati.

Playing in the same division as Oakland minimizes the Broncos' chances for taking a title. Yet Ralston insists the team must aim for winning the division, rather than counting on gaining the AFC wild-card berth in the playoffs.

Recognizing the need for shoring up a defense that gave up nearly as many points as the offense scored, the Broncos made defensive players four of their first five picks in January's draft. The No. 1 choice was San Jose State cornerback Louis Wright, a 6-foot-2, 190-pounder who should earn a starting job before the season is over.

If tackle Paul Smith is fully recovered from a severe Achilles tendon injury that sidelined him most of last season, the Denver defense should be stronger. The pass rush was nearly non-existent during Smith's absence.

The starting linebacker corps is excellent, with Randy Gradishar, the team's top draft pick last year, moving into the middle and Ray May and Tom Jackson flanking him. Jackson, the linebacker from Louisville, seems destined for stardom if he can avoid the injuries that have dogged him his first two seasons.

Wright is battling John Rowser for one starting cornerback spot, with 5-7 Calvin Jones at the other. Bill Thompson and John Pitts are the safeties.

The Broncos have assembled one of the NFL's most underrated offensive lines, which revolves around steady center Bobby Maples. Guard Paul Howard, a 6-3, 260-pound third-year man, is a budding star.

Reds Whip Cubs, 11-4

CHICAGO (AP) — Darrel Chaney couldn't have been happier unless "Mom and Dad had been here" but the Chicago Cubs were upset after their 11-4 loss to the Cincinnati Reds Monday. Chaney hit his first home run of the season and his first ever in Wrigley Field, much to the joy of 17 members of his family including his wife and his son.

"I left 17 passes and saw them all jumping around after I came around third base," said the native of nearby Hammond, Ind. "Only Mom and Dad weren't here. Dad had to work and Mom thought it might be too hot. I hope they saw it on television."

Chaney's homer came in the fifth inning with two mates aboard. He also singled home a run in the second inning to hike his season total to 20 which "is my career high in runs batted in."

"I always dreamed of hitting a home run in this park," the Reds' shortstop said. "Ernie Banks was my hero."

The Reds pounded out 19 hits with Tony Perez reaching a milestone—his 1,000th run batted in. George Foster and Pete Rose had three hits each while six other players had two each, and that's one of the reasons the Cubs were angry.

The Reds were leading 10-4 in the ninth inning when Dave Concepcion, who had doubled across a run, decided to go from second to third on a fly ball to left by Bill Plummer.

Concepcion, who is overcoming an injured wrist, was safe but he collided with Bill Madlock and Madlock had to leave the game with a slightly injured knee.

Madlock, the Cubs third baseman, who has been a one-man terror against the Reds this season, collected two more hits including his seventh homer of the year. He now has 25 hits in 43

times at bat against Cincinnati.

But he was angry after the game. "How many runs were they ahead?" said Madlock. "I don't think we'd have done it to them if we were that many runs ahead."

Manager Jim Marshall also was angry about the play.

"The guy going to third didn't show me much class," said Marshall. I told the coach (Alex Grammas) that and he didn't respond. That should tell you something."

Manager Sparky Anderson of the Reds tried to apologize for Concepcion. "We told him he shouldn't do that," said Anderson. "But he's such an aggressive player, he was just trying to get us another run."

Baseball's being a game of inches, not minutes, may have cost Houston's Cliff Johnson a home run record. The game of inches was rain Monday night — inches of rain which washed away Johnson's sixth home run in as many consecutive games and cost the Astros a 4-3 victory.

There were two outs in the bottom of the 11th inning when the skies opened over Busch Stadium. After 13 minutes of trying to get that last batter to the plate, umpire Ed Sudol made the rainout official.

"I've never seen this happen in the 35 years I've been in baseball; a rainout with only one out to go," said the veteran Sudol. "We gave it every possible chance."

"That's the way it goes," said Johnson, whose homer over the left-field fence was Houston's calm before the storm. "At least the rain will help the farmers."

Had the 11th inning been completed and Johnson's home run counted, it would have made the 28-year-old catcher only the second man in National League history and the sixth overall to hit home runs in six consecutive games. Dale Long, who hit homers in eight straight for the 1956 Pittsburgh Pirates, was the only other National Leaguer to do it.

Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh blanked Atlanta 4-0; Philadelphia trimmed Los Angeles 4-2; Cincinnati bombed Chicago 11-4, and New York stopped San Diego 4-0.

The Astros-Cards contest enters the season records as a 3-3, 10-inning tie, and will be replayed from the start as part of a doubleheader tonight although all performances in the 10 innings Monday will go into the books.

Pirates 4, Braves 0

"This is the kind of sharpness I had last year," said left-hander Jim Rooker after his threehitter and a pair of run-scoring singles by Willie Stargell led the Pirates over the Braves.

"If I had been pitching this way all season we'd probably have a three or four-game bigger lead than we do," he added.

Phillies 4, Dodgers 2

Mike Schmidt slugged his 31st home run and Greg Luzinski drove in his 102nd and 103rd runs of the year to carry Philadelphia past Los Angeles.

Schmidt's home run came in the second inning off Andy Messersmith, 14-13, and tied him with Luzinski for the major league lead.

Mets 4, Padres 0

New York right-hander Hank Webb gave up five singles in earning his first major league shutout and helping the Mets snap San Diego's three-game winning streak.

Jerry Grote tripled home a run in the second inning and rookie Mike Vail singled home a run in the fifth with one of his four hits to help Webb, 6-5, best former Met Brent Strom, 5-3.

Tribe Blasts White Sox, 5-1

BY HERSCHEL NISSENSON

AP Sports Writer

Rookie pitchers Dennis Eckersley of Cleveland and Jim Umberger of Texas don't mind finishing games. The thing is, they'd like a chance to start what they finish.

They pitched to a photo finish with three-hitters Monday night, Eckersley firing 6 1-3 hitless innings as the Indians beat the Chicago White Sox 5-1 — the run was unearned — while Umberger was hurling the Rangers to a 1-0 triumph over the Detroit Tigers.

Both youngsters began the season in their respective bullpens. Eckersley, a right-hander, made his first start May 25 while lefty Umberger had to wait until June 13. Neither has any intention of going back on relief.

In the only other American League action, the Minnesota Twins downed the Milwaukee Brewers 6-3. Baltimore was rained out at Kansas City while the other teams were not scheduled.

Eckersley allowed four walks before Bill Melton broke up his no-hit bid with one out in the seventh, driving a grounder just past diving shortstop Frank Duffy into center field. The hit scored Deron Johnson, who walked and went to second on a passed ball.

Manager Frank Robinson and Charlie Spikes slammed consecutive home runs for the Indians in the bottom of the eighth off veteran Jim Kaat, Chicago's 18-game winner.

Eckersley walked five this time — "Five walks is a lot for him," Robinson said—but struck out eight.

"It would have been nice to throw a no-hitter," he said, "but you've got to be very lucky. You've got to have so many breaks. I threw 144 pitches and I

Tigers Scrimmage Dayton Franklin

Circleville Tigers will scrimmage AAA Dayton Franklin 6:30 p.m. Wednesday on the Red and Black gridiron.

It is open to the public and the price of admission is one bar of soap to be used for the entire Circleville athletic program.

Fans are asked to sit in the stands on the press box side of the field.

A few good reserved season football tickets remain for Circleville's games. They can be purchased at the high school office from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. Monday through Friday.

County Schools Hold Football Scrimmages

All three county schools will host football scrimmages today or Wednesday.

Teays Valley will clash with Columbus South 7 p.m. today. Westfall will be at home to the Aces of Amanda-Clearcreek 8 p.m. Wednesday. Logan Elm's Braves will go against Madison Plains 6:30 p.m. today.

Slow Pitch Tournaments

Chillicothe Little League Eagles and Queen Builders will hold the seventh annual Labor Day Mens slow pitch tournament Aug. 29, 30, 31 and Sept. 1.

Games will be played at Veterans Administration field, Route 104, and Penton field, Mary Lou Patton Park.

Drawings for the A.S.A. sanctioned tournament will be 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the V.A. Hospital diamond. Trophies will be given to the first four teams and individual trophies presented to the first three players.

The 15-run rule will be in effect and there will be no infield practice.

For further information contact Monte Queen, 775-5431 or Bud Ryan, 775-3571.

Wilmington Friends Invitational A.S.A. sanctioned womens slow pitch tournament will be held Saturday, Sunday and Monday at Denver Williams Park in Wilmington.

Drawing will be 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the shelter house at the park. Open teams are excluded from the tournament.

Trophies will be awarded to the first four teams with individual trophies going to the first place team.

Additional information may be obtained from Bill Robison, 513-382-2478.

Frazier Wins Atomic Race

Bud Frazier in the Tecumseh Inn sprinter of Chillicothe won his second feature at Atomic Speedway Saturday night. Frazier started in the No. 1 position and immediately stretched his lead for the feature win. He was followed by Steve Liskai, Woodville.

The previous week's rained-out super sprint feature went to Jim Wical of Raymond, followed by Paul Barnes. This was an "edge-of-the-seat" race between Barnes, Wical, and Bud Frazier. Barnes took the lead early and held it withstanding heavy-heavy pressure lap after lap until the white flag lap when he came upon a slow car in turn four enabling Wical to slip under him and go on in for the win.

The regular Late Model feature winner was Moe Beeler in the Travis Sunoco Dodge. He was challenged continuously by Skip Mount who finished second.

The rained out late model feature went to Bobby Oney of Jackson, who was pressured the entire race by Jim Patrick. Patrick finished second on Oney's rear bumper.

In the Midget feature Steve Ball of Ft. Wayne, Ind., was the winner, but only after staving off the pressure of Mike Brill, second.

Regular racing next Saturday night with the Labor Day Championship coming up on September 1.

Borg Faces Vilas Tonight In Tennis

By DAVE O'HARA

AP Sports Writer

Sweden's Bjorn Borg and Argentina's Guillermo Vilas are close buddies, but they'll try to beat each other's brains out tonight in a showdown for the 48th U.S. Pro Tennis Championship in Brookline, Mass.

"We're good friends, but have to try to hate on the court," said Borg, the 19-year-old defending champion who has won 11 matches in a row at Longwood.

Vilas and Borg are expected to try to whip each other with top-spin shots. That's what they specialize in as two of the world's foremost players.

"We practice together often," Borg said. "I know his game and he knows mine. I think I'll have to play very well to win."

The showdown for the championship and $16,000 first prize in the $100,000 tournament is a rematch of the French Open final. Borg won that confrontation, but found himself seeded second, behind Vilas, in defense of the U.S. Pro title.

Vilas lost his first set in five matches here Monday, but charged into the finals with a 4-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-4 victory over Wimbledon champion Arthur Ashe. A few hours later, Borg easily passed his semifinal test by defeating John Alexander of Australia 6-3, 6-7, 6-3, 6-0 under the lights.

Cliff Victorious In State Fair Race

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Frank Todd Jr. of Miamisburg, piloting Cliff, picked up one of the victories Monday as the four-day Ohio State Fair harness racing program got underway.

Cliff won two straight heats in the $24,350 Ohio State Two-Year-Old Trot over the halfmile fairgrounds track.

Saints Seek Bobby Orr From Bruins

TORONTO (AP) — Is Bobby Orr for sale?

Well, philosophers and accountants say that everything has its price, and the Minnesota Fighting Saints of the World Hockey Association seem to agree as they continue their all-out effort to locate the salary that will lure Orr away from the Boston Bruins.

Orr, the premier defenseman in the National Hockey League, has been negotiating with Minnesota since last spring and reportedly is close to signing a multi-year contract with the club.

The Bruins superstar and his attorney met Monday with Wayne Belisle, president of the Fighting Saints. Afterward, Alan Eagleson, Orr's attorney, said his client would give the Boston until the start of the 1975-76 season to make a counter-proposal. Although Orr's current contract with the Bruins, calling for an estimated $225,000 a year, runs through next season, Eagleson says his client "wants the matter resolved before training camp."

Terms of the offer have not been disclosed, but it will reportedly cover the 27-year-old for the rest of his life. Belisle said his offer was "the best package ever offered an athlete and maybe the best employment package ever offered a businessman." He suggested Orr would be looked after for life "as well as his children and his children's children."

There have been reports that the Saints are enlisting the financial aid of other clubs in the league to meet Orr's price tag.

PCC Couples Club Ends Season Play

A three-club tournament ended regular season play for the Pickaway Country Club's Friday Night Couples.

Mr. and Mrs. Howie Davies were the winners of the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Brudzinski, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Chelickowsky and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kittle all tied for second place. Mr. and Mrs. Dick Williams finished third.

There will be a couples ABCD scramble on Sept. 14.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): The ambitious Aries should find this day a most challenging one. Be ready for new opportunities, new beginnings, new incentive!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Fine aspects encourage clever action, but don't set up hazards for yourself through haste, superfluous moves, nonfruitful interests.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Emphasize sympathy, affability, sincerity. Don't spend all you've earned monetarily, but double your spending in friendship, wholehearted interest in the good things of life.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Keep ears attuned for really useful hints; recognize the valued efforts of others; transfer good ideas to your own program. Emphasize composure all day.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Being a natural leader, others now look to you for guidance, incentive. Supply both generously. They will be grateful and you will reap compensating reward.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A new goal in mind? Stop to ascertain first what is really required, then figure out the best avenues to its achievement. Consult with those who have your interests at heart.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): If there is a fragile conception of values this day, then your picture is NOT in focus. You should be scaling the heights of inspired thinking.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Why not step forward in more venturesome manner if you have all needed facts, and your intuition tells you that NOW is the time? Stars are on your side.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): You are due for a unique surprise now, or soon, unless you work at odds with congenial influences. Wrap up duties without delay; save some time for rest and relaxation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Do the things that make you feel that life is worth living. In this way, you can relieve the tensions of the past, become more fit to handle the busy days ahead.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A fine day for artistic, literary and social interests. In all things, capitalize on your finesse and general know-how.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A number of small matters, well handled, can add up to a winning day. Begin early to determine just where you wish to go, and HOW!

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly intuitive individual, sensitive to the needs of others and a guiding light in the causes you espouse — which may be many in a lifetime. You are a humanitarian at heart and, no matter what career you choose, will always find time to give of yourself to others.

Your Sign, Virgo, indicates idealism, high-minded endeavors and interests of wide scope. You are highly imaginative, conceive unique and brilliant ideas — but always workable. Faults to conquer: hypercriticism and worry. Fields in which you could make an enviable success: journalism, education, music.

statesmanship, the theater. Birthdate of: Lyndon B. Johnson, 36th Pres., U.S.A.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actors usually have at least a few weeks to prepare for a major role. Not John Davey. He was starring in a television series two hours after his agent called to ask if he wanted the job.

The series is "Shazam!" — a Saturday morning children's show on CBS about Captain Marvel, the flying superhero who appeared in Whiz Comics from 1940 to 1953.

Davey was at home with his 8-year-old son, Tommy, when the telephone call came July 2. Filmmaking Studios had just fired last season's Captain Marvel, actor Jackson Bostwick. Filmmaking says Bostwick, after completing two shows for the new season, was holding out for more money. Bostwick's attorney isn't saying anything.

Then the question came: Did Davey want the part? "What hit me was panic," the handsome ex-boxer recalls now.

"Usually an actor is thrilled with any acting job at all, but I was not familiar with 'Shazam!' All I could think of was Captain Kangaroo — you know, sitting in a room with kids throwing cake at you."

Davey's agent recommended taking the job and told him the production crew already was on location awaiting the new Captain Marvel's arrival. Davey said he'd call him back in a few minutes.

Davey, whose six-year acting career has consisted primarily of guest starring roles in TV series and a couple of films, was wary of doing a children's show. He decided to consult his wife. He called her at work. She wasn't in.

"So," Davey recounts, "I turned to my son and I explained they wanted me to play Captain Marvel. Well, he just went right through the ceiling. He said, 'Oh, my gosh, wow, really?' — you know?"

"Well, when I saw the look on his face, I thought if I could be his hero, even for a while, it would be worth it. So I called my agent and got directions to the set."

His arrival was greeted with applause from the crew. Davey donned his red costume with the thunderbolt across the chest. Two hours after receiving the first phone call, he was jumping off a ladder that made it look like he'd just landed from a flight.

"The whole day was really a trip," says Davey, shaking his head in disbelief. "I just kept looking at myself and saying, 'My God, am I actually wearing this?'"

He says his attitude has changed considerably since then. As a father, he likes the way this Captain Marvel concerns himself with helping children solve their everyday problems rather than with fanciful fights against evil forces trying to take over the world.

The safe driver, the National Automobile Club says, not only is able to control his car, but also must be capable of good judgment and accurate timing.

Road signs read with care provide clues to dangerous traffic situations.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actors usually have at least a few weeks to prepare for a major role. Not John Davey. He was starring in a television series two hours after his agent called to ask if he wanted the job.

The series is "Shazam!" — a Saturday morning children's show on CBS about Captain Marvel, the flying superhero who appeared in Whiz Comics from 1940 to 1953.

Davey was at home with his 8-year-old son, Tommy, when the telephone call came July 2. Filmmation Studios had just fired last season's Captain Marvel, actor Jackson Bostwick. Filmmation says Bostwick, after completing two shows for the new season, was holding out for more money. Bostwick's attorney isn't saying anything.

Then the question came: Did Davey want the part? "What hit me was panic," the handsome ex-boxer recalls now.

"Usually an actor is thrilled with any acting job at all, but I was not familiar with 'Shazam!' All I could think of was Captain Kangaroo — you know, sitting in a room with kids throwing cake at you."

Davey's agent recommended taking the job and told him the production crew already was on location awaiting the new Captain Marvel's arrival. Davey said he'd call him back in a few minutes.

Davey, whose six-year acting career has consisted primarily of guest starring roles in TV series and a couple of films, was wary of doing a children's show. He decided to consult his wife. He called her at work. She wasn't in.

"So," Davey recounts, "I turned to my son and I explained they wanted me to play Captain Marvel. Well, he just went right through the ceiling. He said, 'Oh, my gosh, wow, really?' — you know?"

"Well, when I saw the look on his face, I thought if I could be his hero, even for a while, it would be worth it. So I called my agent and got directions to the set."

His arrival was greeted with applause from the crew. Davey donned his red costume with the thunderbolt across the chest. Two hours after receiving the first phone call, he was jumping off a ladder that made it look like he'd just landed from a flight.

"The whole day was really a trip," says Davey, shaking his head in disbelief. "I just kept looking at myself and saying, 'My God, am I actually wearing this?'"

He says his attitude has changed considerably since then. As a father, he likes the way this Captain Marvel concerns himself with helping children solve their everyday problems rather than with fanciful fights against evil forces trying to take over the world.

The safe driver, the National Automobile Club says, not only is able to control his car, but also must be capable of good judgment and accurate timing.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): The ambitious Arien should find this day a most challenging one. Be ready for new opportunities, new beginnings, new incentive!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Fine aspects encourage clever action, but don't set up hazards for yourself through haste, superfluous moves, nonfruitful interests.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Emphasize sympathy, affability, sincerity. Don't spend all you've earned monetarily, but double your spending in friendship, wholehearted interest in the good things of life.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Keep ears attuned for really useful hints; recognize the valued efforts of others; transfer good ideas to your own program. Emphasize composure all day.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Being a natural leader, others now look to you for guidance, incentive. Supply both generously. They will be grateful and you will reap compensating reward.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A new goal in mind? Stop to ascertain first what is really required, then figure out the best avenues to its achievement. Consult with those who have your interests at heart.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): If there is a fragile conception of values this day, then your picture is NOT in focus. You should be scaling the heights of inspired thinking.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Why not step forward in more venturesome manner if you have all needed facts, and your intuition tells you that NOW is the time? Stars are on your side.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): You are due for a unique surprise now, or soon, unless you work at odds with congenial influences. Wrap up duties without delay; save some time for rest and relaxation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Do the things that make you feel that life is worth living. In this way, you can relieve the tensions of the past, become more fit to handle the busy days ahead.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A fine day for artistic, literary and social interests. In all things, capitalize on your finesse and general know-how.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A number of small matters, well handled, can add up to a winning day. Begin early to determine just where you wish to go, and HOW!

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly intuitive individual, sensitive to the needs of others and a guiding light in the causes you espouse — which may be many in a lifetime. You are a humanitarian at heart and, no matter what career you choose, will always find time to give of yourself to others.

Your Sign, Virgo, indicates idealism, high-minded endeavors and interests of wide scope. You are highly imaginative, conceive unique and brilliant ideas — but always workable. Faults to conquer: hypercriticism and worry. Fields in which you could make an enviable success: journalism, education, music.

City Schools Announce Free And Reduced Price Meal Policy

Circleville City Schools today announced policy for free meals and free milk and for reduced price meals for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the National School Lunch and Special Milk Programs.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size income criteria for determining eligibility:

Family Size	Income Scale For Free Meals	Income Scale For Reduced Price Meals
1	$ 3,230	$ 4,520
2	4,240	5,930
3	5,250	7,350
4	6,260	8,770
5	7,190	10,060
6	8,110	11,360
7	8,950	12,530
8	9,790	13,700
9	10,550	14,770
10	11,310	15,840
11	12,060	16,890
12	12,810	17,940
Each Additional Family Member	750	1,050

Eligibility determinations are made on a family basis, that is, all the children in the same family attending schools under the jurisdiction of this school food authority receive the same benefits, free meals and free milk or reduced-price meals.

To receive free or reduced-price meals and free milk, the family income after deductions for special hardship conditions applicable to family size is equal or less than that indicated in Column B for free meals and free milk and Column C for reduced-price meals.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free meals and free milk or for reduced-price meals. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color or national origin.

Under the provisions of the school's policy, Mary May Yates, Child Accounting Officer will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Donald E. Metzler, Elementary Supervisor, 520 South Court Street, Circleville, Ohio 43113 - Phone: 474-7111 for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

Each school and the Board of Education administrative office has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by an interested party.

FAULTY HOSE—Circleville Fire Chief Mike Brown and Lt. Chet Echard inspect the tank of a small blow torch that is suspected of causing a fire 12:16 p.m. Monday at a house at 544 E. Main St. Chief Brown said Martin Call was apparently using the torch to apply heat to pipes that were clogged under the dwelling. The fire broke out when the torch apparently flashed on material under the house. The Chief suspects that the faulty hose may have caused the minor blaze. Call was taken to Berger Hospital's emergency room by the Emergency Medical Team, where he was treated for minor burns.

Youngster Runs Into Vehicle

A six-year-old Portsmouth youth was injured Monday afternoon when he apparently ran into the path of a car on W. Franklin St., Circleville Police said.

The boy, John F. VanHoose, Route 5, Portsmouth, was treated at Berger Hospital's emergency room for minor injuries and released.

The youngster was apparently walking with friends when he ran into the street and into the path of a car driven by Ruth B. Tammany, 48, Route 5.

The Tammany car was westbound on the street.

Women's Rights Arguments Heard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fiftyfive years ago today, in the last months of President Woodrow Wilson's second term, Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby declared that 36 states had ratified the 19th Amendment giving American women the constitutional right to vote.

Some of the debate that led up to the ratification of the 19th Amendment resembles the arguments that now surround the proposed Equal Rights Amendment, which would ban sex discrimination.

If it is to become the 27th Amendment to the Constitution, the ERA must be ratified by 38 state legislatures by 1979. So far, 34 states have endorsed it, although two — Tennessee and Nebraska — have rescinded their approval, a step with unclear legal ramifications.

During the suffrage debate in 1915, Alice Stone Blackwell wrote a pamphlet "Objections Answered," that sought to rebut the arguments against giving women the right to vote.

She noted that one of the objections was that a woman would lose her influence if she could vote. But Miss Blackwell argued that "a woman after enfranchisement would have all the personal influence she has now, and political influence in addition."

Another argument then and now concerned military service. Back then, it was argued that if women vote, they ought to fight and do police duty. Miss Blackwell also addressed that issue in her pamphlet.

"If no men were allowed to vote except those who were able and willing to do military and police duty, women might consistently be debarred for that reason."

"But so long as the old, the infirm, the hale, the lame and the blind are freely admitted to the ballot box, some better reason must be found for excluding women than the fact that they do not fight."

She noted that all men over 45 were exempt from military service, yet they voted, and she quoted statistics showing that the majority of journalists, physicians, preachers and lawyers were found unfit for fighting in the Civil War.

The argument in the 1970s is that the ERA would "put women on warships and make them subject to combat duty on an equal basis with men regardless of whether we have a draft or not" — as put by the group called Adam's Rib, formed to defeat the ERA in Missouri.

Another argument then and now was whether women's suffrage — or, now the ERA — would increase family quarrels and lead to divorce.

Miss Blackwell noted that women in Wyoming were given full suffrage in 1869, but the divorce rate in Wyoming didn't increase as fast as it did in the rest of the country in the next 20 years.

Senior Center Considered For Federal Grant

At the County Commissioners meeting Monday, a public hearing was held on the Community Development Block Grant. Ideas were discussed as to what the county will apply for to receive the funds.

According to Greg Bigam, the commissioners decided that a Senior Center was the most relevant project for the county. Papers were signed, and the application will be made for this building.

Bigam explained that the grant is a federal project through the Housing and Urban Development. Any city, village, or county can apply for the funds.

Presently, the federal funds for this area amount to $264,000. It is available to Pickaway, Fairfield, Madison and Delaware counties.

The project is designed to aid the area on a community development project that can't be funded through any other source.

Allocation of the money is based first on the amount of poverty in the county. Then, it is based on the type of project the area is asking for.

Housing and similar structures are top priority projects which is partially the reason the commissioners decided on the center.

The county will remodel the existing garage at the Children's Home for the center. The estimated cost for the project, including landscaping and sewage is $45,000.

The argument in the 1970s is that the ERA would "put women on warships and make them subject to combat duty on an equal basis with men regardless of whether we have a draft or not" — as put by the group called Adam's Rib, formed to defeat the ERA in Missouri.

Another argument then and now was whether women's suffrage — or, now the ERA — would increase family quarrels and lead to divorce.

Miss Blackwell noted that women in Wyoming were given full suffrage in 1869, but the divorce rate in Wyoming didn't increase as fast as it did in the rest of the country in the next 20 years.

Senior Center Considered For Federal Grant

At the County Commissioners meeting Monday, a public hearing was held on the Community Development Block Grant. Ideas were discussed as to what the county will apply for to receive the funds.

According to Greg Bigam, the commissioners decided that a Senior Center was the most relevant project for the county. Papers were signed, and the application will be made for this building.

Bigam explained that the grant is a federal project through the Housing and Urban Development. Any city, village, or county can apply for the funds.

Presently, the federal funds for this area amount to $264,000. It is available to Pickaway, Fairfield, Madison and Delaware counties.

The project is designed to aid the area on a community development project that can't be funded through any other source.

Allocation of the money is based first on the amount of poverty in the county. Then, it is based on the type of project the area is asking for.

Housing and similar structures are top priority projects which is partially the reason the commissioners decided on the center.

The county will remodel the existing garage at the Children's Home for the center. The estimated cost for the project, including landscaping and sewage is $45,000.

FAULTY HOSE—Circleville Fire Chief Mike Brown and Lt. Chet Echard inspect the tank of a small blow torch that is suspected of causing a fire 12:16 p.m. Monday at a house at 544 E. Main St. Chief Brown said Martin Call was apparently using the torch to apply heat to pipes that were clogged under the dwelling. The fire broke out when the torch apparently flashed on material under the house. The Chief suspects that the faulty hose may have caused the minor blaze. Call was taken to Berger Hospital's emergency room by the Emergency Medical Team, where he was treated for minor burns.
